CAPITAL LEVY
BILL OFFERED
BY FRENCH
CABINETMeasure Introduced in Chamber by De Monzie Calls for 10 Per Cent
"Voluntary" Levy.BANK OF FRANCE
OVER-ISSUES NOTESFiscal Bill Increases Limit of Currency in Order to Legalize Irregular Condition.

PARIS, April 7.—The Government's new financial bill, embodying the provision for the proposed capital levy was introduced in the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon by Finance Minister de Monzie. The measure was agreed to by the Cabinet this morning. He asked its immediate reference to the Finance Committee and a report on it before the end of the day.

The Bank of France, it was said in official circles today, has already exceeded the legal limit of its circulation by more than 1,500,000,000 francs, so that it became necessary to regulate the situation by increasing the limit.

"Confused" and "uncertain" were the words used to describe the political-financial situation in France this morning. Political observers, however, are convinced that the administration of Premier Herriot is doomed to disappear—but when,
and how, they hesitate to say.

Herriot still seems to retain a certain amount of confidence shortly after midnight, after a conference with the leaders of his majority groups, he said: "There is no reason to exaggerate the difficulties at the hour. The storm burst simply because a man displayed a resistance to settle the situation without regard to the interests which he might come into conflict with."

Cash for Non-Maturing Bonds.
The measures, a communiqué says, are comprised in a single bill. The first part authorizes the Bank of France to increase circulation by four billion francs to a total of 45 billion francs and to raise the limit of the bank's advances to the state from 22 to 26 billion.

The second part provides for a mandatory 10 per cent contribution to capital, payable over a period of five years, in cash, Government securities, and even bankable commercial paper with three indorsers.
Subscribers would receive "rentes," which are perpetual bonds and bear interest.

Declarations for this 10 per cent levy would be checked with income tax returns, and those failing to contribute would be assessed by the Government. This levy would be used to reduce the public debt, which according to expectations would lighten the interest burden on this debt by 600,000,000 francs annually.

How System Will Work.
The mechanism of the voluntary contribution system as explained by the Finance Minister is intended to afford property owners and capitalists of France a chance to come forward and contribute proportionately to their wealth to the reconstruction of French finances.

It contains provisions obliging men to do so if they refrain from voluntary subscription.

"The principles at the bottom of the whole scheme," said De Monzie, are the maximum of option on the part of the capitalists and a minimum of constraint. If a capitalist so desires, he can, previous to his subscription, make a declaration of his fortune, which will make intervention on the part of the Government unnecessary."

The Minister gave it to be understood that pressure would be resisted to only in flagrant cases of refusal by a capitalist of his obligation under the new law.

Majority Divided.
Although the Government has acted on the measure and on the bill to increase the limit of the bank bill issue by the Bank of France to 45 billion francs and increase the limit of the advances to the bank to the state by four billion francs, the majority in the Chamber is divided. Most of the right group, presided over by Louchere, will fight both measures.

The Socialists will ask for consideration of a counter proposition calling for a straight capital levy of 10 per cent.

De Monzie's plan in raising the limit of the note issue and a time raising the limit of advances from the Bank of France to the state.

IN JAIL BECAUSE MAN PAYS $1 A DAY
TO KEEP HIM THEREEast St. Louis's Troubles Began When He Sought to Collect Grocery Bill.

Hiram Casey, who clerked in his son's grocery at 3621 State street, East St. Louis, is in the St. Clair County jail at Belleville. He is being kept there at the rate of $1 a day and his former friend, William Pusey, of 301 North Thirty-fourth street, is paying the bill.

Pusey and Casey were good friends until one day last October.
On that day Casey asked Pusey to pay his $35 grocery bill, and Pusey refused, saying he didn't owe $35, but only $3.50. Casey is 55, Pusey is 74. Casey, declaring he was going to take the bill out of Pusey's "hide," hit Pusey with an ice-scraper.

Pusey filed a damage suit for $3500 and the court awarded him $900. Casey never paid. Pusey took advantage of an Illinois statute which says that a defendant may be sent to jail until he pays, if the plaintiff pays his board of $1 a day. Friday Pusey gave the Sheriff $15 and Casey was taken to jail. Casey says he won't pay but will stay in jail until Pusey is tired of paying his board. Mrs.
Pusey says her husband intends to continue paying Casey's board. Six months is the maximum time Pusey can pay for Casey's keep.

FIRE LAID TO CHAPMAN'S PALS

Garage Owned by Two State Witnesses Destroyed.

STUEBENVILLE, O., April 7.—
That the Stanton Motor Co. garage fire here this morning which resulted in the destruction of the building and 30 automobiles with an estimated loss of $200,000, was started by former associates of Gerald Chapman, notorious bandit, is the belief of city authorities.

The garage is owned by William Snyder and Miss Katherine Bourne, who were State witnesses against Chapman at his recent trial in Hartford, Conn. They testified that the automobile which figured in the robbery of the night Patrolman James Smith was stolen from the garage in the destruction of the building and 30 automobiles here some months before and both identified Chapman as the man who had made inquiries about the price of the car a few hours before it was stolen from the show window.

LEAGUE TO LIST BEST BOOKS

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, April 7.—The League of Nations has announced a plan to prepare yearly a list of 600 of the best books which have appeared during the preceding 12 months in various countries of the world.

The League authorities say the underlying idea is the desirability for close intellectual contact. No volumes apparently will be eliminated from the projected list, which will include as subjects history, law, social science, theology, philosophy, classical literature, art, geography, travel and literary history. Countries publishing 10,000 or more books annually would be entitled to designate 40 books and other countries in diminishing proportion, according to output.

BURNS' POEMS BRING $8350

Scottish Poet Originally Sold Edition for $97.

LONDON, April 7.—The Rosenbach Co. of Philadelphia has paid the record price of $1750 (about $8350) for one of the finest existing copies of the Kilmarnock edition of poems chiefly in the Scottish dialect by Robert Burns. The whole of this edition brought the poet only £20.

At the same auction Rosenbach obtained for $380 another interesting edition, consisting of a copy of the first edition of "Alice in Wonderland," published in 1865, of which only six copies are known to exist.

PRICE 2 CENTS

65 PER CENT OF BLUEBIRD ASSETS
ALLOWED IN FEES$56,250 of $87,340 to Go to Attorneys and Receivers, Leaving 2 1/2 Cents on Dollar for Creditors.NOTHING FOR THE STOCKHOLDERSDistribution of Remnants of Washing Machine Concern Determined by Circuit Court.

Attorneys and receivers of the BlueBird Manufacturing Co., will get almost 65 per cent of the $87-340 live assets of the firm.

Creditors, with claims approximating $1,000,000, will get slightly more than 2 1/2 per cent of the live assets—only enough to pay them about 2 1/2 cents on the dollar.

Stockholders who held securities of the company valued at $700,000 will get nothing.

This distribution of the remnants of the once prosperous electric washing machine corporation in which St. Louisans invested, was determined yesterday when Circuit Judge Hall allowed $56,250 for legal fees incidental to liquidation of the concern. The allowances made by Judge Hall are as follows:

To Ben G. Brinkman, Thomas Mellow and J. H. Conrad, joint receivers from May 21, 1920, to June 18, 1922, $20,000.

To their attorneys, former Circuit Judge Leo S. Ranssieur and William H. Schaubert, the present receivers, $20,000.

To Gustave L. Stern and the firm of Frumberg & Russell, attorneys for the company, $5000.

To Luther E. Smith, attorney for the plaintiff, C. Norman Jones, and intervening stockholders, $5000.

To Howard L. Cook, patent attorney, $750.

To Emmett J. Finerman, receiver for the BlueBird Appliance Co., a subsidiary, $1500.

To his attorneys, Luther E.
Smith and Elmer E. Peacey, $2000.

How the Washout Came.
These allowances are to be divided where they are made to more than one person. They represent the Court's award on claims for legal services which totaled $152-9000.

The remnants of the firm's assets which were once believed, even after the receivership, to be worth at least $1,000,000, came to its present insignificant figure through the utter collapse of the principal holding, 9144 shares of the BlueBird Manufacturing Co. of Dayton, O., and 9155 shares of the common stock of the same company.

The Davis concern took over the assets of the BlueBird Manufacturing Co. after the BlueBird re-ceivership, giving stock in the Davis Company in exchange. Prospects for a settlement of the affairs of the BlueBird Manufacturing Co. on a substantial basis looked bright for a time, but the hopes of the creditors were dashed when the Davis Sewing Machine Co. itself went into receivership.

The Davis stock, once carried on the BlueBird receivership records at a valuation of $1,000,000, is still listed, but is no longer carried as a live asset. Schaubert, the receiver, today expressed the opinion that creditors on the BlueBird receivership lists would not receive more than 2 1/2 per cent of their claims.

Lawyers Tell of Hard Work.
It took three days and a half for the lawyers and receivers to present their claims for legal services.
That was in March, 1923, when attorneys and creditors still believed the assets would total at least $1-000,000. It was on this valuation of the receivership holdings that the claimants based their proposed fees.

During the testimony of attorneys concerning their claims Judge Hassler declared that he devoted all his time to the receivership for several months. Other lawyers declared they had put extensive work into the case. Many sawing had been filed in opposition to the receivership and these complicated the work of the lawyers.
Still more time was spent consummating the ill-starred sale of the assets of the company to the Davis Sewing Machine Co.

A. M. Frumberg told the Court when presenting his claim that he had spent long days and sleepless nights with the receivership and declared that the work of his firm and of Attorney Stern was worth about the $5000 fee which they only asked. Smith declared on

33 PLEAD GUILTY

men and Dry Agents Ad-

When Case Is Called.SENTENCE DEFERRED
BY FEDERAL JUDGEThirty-Two Others Face Trial on Indictments Alleging Conspiracy With Bootleggers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CINCINNATI, O., April 7.—
Twenty-four suspended Cincinnati police and detectives and nine village prohibition agents, indicted by the Federal grand jury on graft charges, pleaded guilty before Judge Smith Hickenlooper in the United States District Court today.
Sentences were deferred until after the conclusion of the trials of the remaining 32 men who have not yet pleaded guilty. Six others pleaded guilty Saturday.

Among those pleading guilty were Lieut. Aubrey Howson of the Fourth District and Sergeants
John H. Heidenreich and John G.
Joachim.

U. S. Agents Trapped Police.
The investigation that resulted in the arrests of the police and dry agents has been conducted in Cincinnati for many months. Some reports were to the effect that the Department of Justice assigned its secret service men to obtain evidence of graft and gambling and liquor cases. Two of the secret service men, it was stated, started a saloon in the West End section of the city, where graft was said to have been paid to a number of policemen. At a saloon where a large handbook has been operated, one of the secret service men obtained a position as a bartender and another as a porter.
Thousands of dollars are said to have been paid by the handbook operators.

A few of the policemen recently bought fine houses. The Federal authorities say that in some cases the collecting officer would call on his "customer" and ask for a match. "There is a box of matches," the saloon man would say.
The policeman would take the box and in it he would find payment.
On some boats the bootleggers paid to each of the three lieutenants an equal sum to each. Most of the supplies occurred in the Eighteenth Ward district, where disorderly houses remained open despite the pleadings of social agencies that they be closed.

The investigation was followed by Federal grand jury indictments charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

Trials of 32 Delayed.
The trials of the other 32 accused men will begin Monday. On request of attorneys representing the defendants, Judge Hickenlooper put over the cases to give them further time for preparation.

The Government yesterday filed a bill of particulars, giving the names of 83 cafe owners and reported bootleggers as the persons over the cases to give them paid bribes for protection in connection with sales of liquor.

The names of guilty men today were only with reference to the charges of violating the national prohibition law. Attorneys for the men said that guilty pleas would not be made to baroque act violations, also charged against some of the defendants.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—A personal plea in behalf of her husband, Count Michael Karolyi, former President of Hungary, made to the State Department today by his wife, the Countess Karolyi, failed to modify the department's decision that the Count should adhere strictly to his promise not to engage in political activities while in the United States.

The Countess was referred to the office of William Castle Jr., chief of the Western European Division and Secretary Kellogg did not see her. Both walked to the postoffice, where they were met by the Countess. After leaving the State Department she said that she would confer with her attorney in New York and that a statement might then be issued.

Countess Karolyi, explained for New York immediately, saying that she and her husband were leaving there for Canada. She will return to the United States in the fall, she said, for a lecture tour, but was unable to say whether her husband would accompany her.

ONE KNOWN DEAD IN FIRE

Jump in River.

By the Associated Press.

HANOVER, Mass., April 7.—One man is known to be dead and several employees of the National Fireworks Co.'s plant here are believed to have lost their lives when a series of explosions followed by fire destroyed a large part of the plant this afternoon. The fire department of seven towns were struggling to save the magazines and surrounding houses.

Maynard Goodwin, who was at work in the mixing room, one of scores of small shed buildings which made up the plant, was killed. Several other employees in the same building escaped by jumping through windows into the Drumwater River. It was in this room that the first explosion occurred, presumably from a new machine which was being tried out there.

At 2 o'clock it was estimated that 100 of the 200 buildings had been destroyed.

Frantic girls at work in the sheltered through doorways or windows to seek safety in the river. All the windows were blown out in the factory at the Hanover Rubber Co., 1000 feet away, and many workers were thrown to the floor. A big wind drove the sparks far and wide, starting grass and brush fires over a large area. Many company houses occupied by workers caught fire from the sparks.

IGOE AND MILLER
VOTE EARLY, EACH
IN A RESTAURANT

Democrat Casts His Ballot at 7:40 and Republican at 8:30 A. M.

Both the Democratic and Republican candidates for Mayor were seen polling places to vote early today. It is easy to guess how they voted. Both walked to the postoffice, where they were met by backers of each candidate waiting to take them to the polls.

The total volume of money at stake on the outcome is at least $1,000,000. Tom Kearney, betting commissioner, declared this morning: "There is hardly a barber shop, a pool room, a shoe shiner parlor, a cigar stand, or a hotel in town where you can't place a bet."

At 7:40 a. m. William L. Igoe, the Democratic candidate, strode into the voting place of the Seventeenth Precinct, Twenty-second Ward, in a neighborhood eating house at the southeast corner of Kingshighway and St. Louis avenue. A few other voters were there. Igoe said a gentle "Good morning" and exchanged smiles with the officials.
As he left, a small gathering of men and women outside broke out handclapping for him. Igoe's home is at 4939 Northland avenue.

At 8:30 a. m. Victor J. Miller, the Republican candidate, arrived at the polling place of the Seventeenth Precinct, Twenty-second Ward, in a beaming broad smile, and said
"How do you do?" to everybody.
Half a dozen voters were in the booths and about eight others were waiting their turns. But the lines scattered aside to let the candidate pass. Miller resided at 6400 Pershing avenue. His voting place was in a basement restaurant at the southeast corner of Skinker road and Pershing avenue.

will invite the South African Radio

ciety and the Australian Radio Re-

Inauguration of City's New Executive to Take Place April 21.

Heavy voting in the morning and early afternoon hours of today's city election, indicated the total vote would exceed 225,000, or 75 per cent of the registration of 298,896, and that it might approach 240,000, or 80 per cent of the registration.

This would mean that either Victor J. Miller, Republican nominee for Mayor, or William L.
Igoe, Democratic nominee, must poll at least 119,000 votes to win, as it is not expected that the Socialist vote will be much more than 5000.

Canvasses Made.
Unusual eagerness of voters to take part in the election was shown in canvasses made at intervals through the day, of selected precincts in each of the 24 wards.
The first such canvass, made at 10
a. m., showed that, in the precincts canvassed, 26 per cent of all those registered had voted. This indicated a vote for the city at large, of nearly 78,000 at that hour. The second canvass, made at noon, was in an entirely different selection of precincts, showed that 25 per cent of the vote of those precincts had been cast in the first six hours, indicating a city-wide vote of 164-000.

The third canvass, again with a new selection of precincts, was made at 2 o'clock, and it showed 5881 votes cast in the group of precincts, which have a registration of 12,847. This is a 45 per cent vote, and applied to the city at large would mean that about 144-000, or 48 per cent, of the total eight hours of the voting day.

The polls will close at 7 p. m.
A new canvass, once more with a new group of precincts, at 4 p. m., indicated that about 163-000 votes had been cast throughout the city up to that hour. This total was about 50 per cent of the registration. The three hours that remained for voting were the period when many workers stop to cast their ballots on the way home.

UNPLEDGE TO ANY GROUP, SAYS IGOE IN KSD ADDRESS

Mayor Has No Right to Play Policeman, Asserts Democratic Candidate in Radio Talk.

HE DEMANDS AN HONEST COUNT Outlines Policies He Intends to Pursue if Elected to the Office of Mayor at Today's Election.

William L. Igoe, Democratic candidate for Mayor, made his concluding speech of the campaign last night over KSD, the Post-Dispatch radio station. He demanded a fair election, and an honest count, and outlined the policies which he intends to pursue if elected, declaring that the Mayor has "no more right to play policeman than the policeman has to play Mayor."

"The decision which the people of St. Louis will make at the polls tomorrow will be more than a choice between candidates. It will be a determination between two different proposals for the conduct of the municipal government during the next four years. In practically all of my speeches I have addressed myself to the issues and problems which I believe the people desired the candidates to discuss. I have studiously refrained from personalities. I have ignored extraneous and purely artificial questions. My promises have been made conscientiously and with full knowledge that the people will expect and demand their fulfillment. At this last hour of the campaign, and on the eve of the people's decision, I remain unpledged to any individual, interest or group. The obligation which I owe and feel to all the people of St. Louis, without respect to race, religion or political identification, is free, as I am also determined to discharge without a trammel of any kind.

Cites Past Record.

"I have served the people of St. Louis heretofore during four years as a member of the Municipal Assembly. I have represented 210,000 of my fellow citizens in Congress for eight years. I have devoted attention and study to the business and methods and needs of the municipal government and, I think, I must say without presumption, that I know something about the laws which grant and limit the powers of the Mayor. Knowing what those laws are, I now solemnly bind myself to obey and enforce every one of them. But I shall obey also every law which prohibits the Mayor from assuming and exercising powers which is neither conferred nor contemplated in the statutes and charter. Those who expect that I shall abuse the powers of the Mayor and substitute their whims for my duty, for the law are inviting disappointment.

"Once more I find it necessary to say that there are laws to govern the police and there are laws to govern the Mayor. These laws are separate and distinct. I have to move right to play policeman than the policeman has to play Mayor. Accordingly I shall leave to the Police Department the fulfillment of its duties and I shall confine myself as the law directs to the performance of duties imposed upon me. If I shall succeed, as I shall try to, in the use of my abilities to succeed, in doing all that the Charter exacts of the Mayor, I shall have accomplished what I have pledged and what the people demand.

"Only those who have given the subject serious thought can understand the number and importance of the problems involved in managing the business of a great city of nearly 1,000,000 inhabitants. Even under ordinary conditions this is a great task and an onerous responsibility. At a time when the Mayor is to be the steward appointed to safeguard the expenditures of $37,000,000 of the taxpayers' money for the many permanent public improvements they have authorized, the burden and difficulty of the task are greatly magnified. It is the Mayor who must be held to rigid accountability for the honest and successful expenditure of the people's taxes. The acts of his appointees are his acts. He cannot evade blame or censure if his subordinates, whom he has chosen, fail or refuse to co-operate for clean and efficient government. With that fact clear in my mind, I know what a grave responsibility it will be if I am elected to select the men and women who are to help me realize my own pledges and to meet the just expectations of the people. Fortunately we have in St. Louis many men and women of the high character and the training and experience necessary to share in the work of giving the city an efficient, economical and creditable administration of its business.

"Once more I feel that I should thank with all my heart those numerous men and women who have given their time and effort in my behalf during the campaign. No more words are sufficient either

ELECTION BOARD ESTIMATES 240,000 MAY VOTE TODAY

Second Mayoralty Poll in Which Women Have Ballot May Bring Out 80 Per Cent of Registration.

Today's election is the second mayoralty election in which women have voted. Of the present revised registration, which is 238,836, it is estimated that not more than 40 per cent, or 119,534, are women. In the registration for last fall's presidential election, as shown by a compilation made by the Election Board, women were 39 per cent of the voters. The estimated number of men registered at present, or 60 per cent of the whole, is 119,302.

In last fall's registration, white voters were 85 per cent and negro voters 15 per cent of the whole. If the same percentage holds at this time, the number of negro voters would be 35,567, and the number of white voters 123,967.

Because of the general interest taken in today's election, it is expected that the vote cast will represent a much larger percentage of the registration than that of four years ago, when only 68 per cent of those registered voted. The Election Board estimates that not less than 225,000, and possibly as many as 240,000, will vote today. The estimate is for a 75 to 83 per cent vote.

In the last five elections for Mayor, the highest percentage of the registrants voting was 79 per cent, in 1917. The largest Republican plurality in those years, and Mayor Kiel's best showing in his three campaigns was in 1917, although Kiel got a numerically larger vote in 1921, when the women voted.

The vote for Mayor in the campaign of 1925 to 1927, inclusive, is shown in the following table:

Year	Registration	Total vote	Percentage
1925	123,247	95,045	77 per cent
1927	144,387	112,000	77 per cent
1929	142,342	112,000	78 per cent
1931	150,337	115,113	76 per cent
1933	151,596	114,000	75 per cent
1935	238,836	123,000	51 per cent

To express my gratitude or to repay their generous interest. What I can do and will do, if I am elected, is to continue in co-operation with the police and others to insure for St. Louis that good government which, after all, they were striving to. To those who feel that they should vote against me, I say in advance that if I am elected I will be their servant as much and as faithfully as I shall be the servant of all those who supported me. And I will try to prove to them that however they and I may have differed before my election, a common purpose—the welfare, the progress and the happiness of St. Louis.

Demands Honest Election.

"It is a disgraceful thing even to contemplate the possibility of interference with the right of any citizen to cast his ballot as his conscience and judgment dictate. Nevertheless, I feel bound to say that any attempt at interference of voters, no matter for whom they intend to vote, is an outrage which I and to vote, will not be recorded at this election. The result of the voting tomorrow should come as the considered judgment of the people. There should be no question of their honesty or fairness. Whoever seeks to deprive a voter of his right to cast his ballot or to prevent the counting of that ballot for the candidate for whom it was intended, is committing a crime against the state and against good government. While I insist that every ballot which is cast for me will be counted for me, I am equally insistent that every other candidate have the same guarantee.

"Personally I do not fear the outcome of tomorrow's voting. I believe that the people of St. Louis will give their endorsement to the end of Government for which I have been contending. They will approve of the policies which I have tried to represent. If it should happen that I am defeated, I shall not lose interest in the municipal government. As a citizen in the ranks, I shall continue to do what ever I may to promote the growth and the well being of the city in which I was born and have lived all my life. Even if I fail of election tomorrow, I shall owe my native city a great debt for the honor it has conferred upon me and the confidence its people have so often expressed in me."

"Attempt to Label Igoe as Gangster Proven Boomerang."

The attempt to label William L. Igoe as a gangster candidate has proven a boomerang. Charles M. Hay said in an Igoe campaign meeting at the Gateway Hotel last night.

The charge made in some headlines that he had procured a pardon for Greenberg, has turned out to be nothing short of a cheap, contemptible Eleventh hour campaign.

The letter Igoe wrote President Wilson is itself a complete and absolute refutation of the charge. It is more than that. It is further evidence of the sound integrity and sound sense of Mr. Igoe.

"After raking his past public and private, with a fine-tooth comb, Mr. Igoe's enemies have not produced a single fact which reflects upon his integrity or his good sense. He stands before the city today just as he stood on the day he announced his candidacy, namely, as a man of unimpeachable character, of good common sense, of judgment, and, without a doubt, of the sort and character of man this city needs.

"We all love our city. We are all ambitious to make it a greater and better city. We are all ambitious to make our city a model for the entire country. We are all ambitious to do what is best for the city, and we are all ambitious to do what is best for the country.

"The principal expenditures of a campaign go for printing, postage, headquarters rental, office forces and outside workers and organizations. On primary and election days, precinct workers, delegates to the task of getting out the vote, receive certain sums in each of the 624 precincts of the city. This is used for lunches, automobile hire and other incidentals.

"City Hall Boys' Contribute.

The "City Hall boys," employees of the city, usually contribute ten per cent of one month's salary toward the campaign fund of the party in power and a material amount is raised in this way.

Officials of public utility corporations said they were not taking any financial part in the campaign.

Robert J. Kratky, campaign manager for Victor J. Miller, said the Republican fund was made up mostly of small contributions. He would not estimate as to the total. Philip C. Scanlon, chairman of the Igoe finance committee, said $500 was the largest contribution he had received and that for the most part the contributions were in small sums.

Igo Office Open to Give Advice to Voters.

To assist and advise voters, the Igoe-Miller organization in the Commercial Building, Sixth and Olive streets, kept its office open today. Telephone inquiries were received from voters, and legal advice was given to those whose rights of vote had been questioned. The office will be open until the polls have closed. Its telephone numbers are Main 333, Main 1356 and Main 1607.

KILLED WHEN CLEANING GUN

The discharge of a shotgun he was cleaning resulted in the instant death of Ferdinand Hampton, 38 years old, living with his brother, Robert, on St. John's Station Road, St. John's Station.

Hampton, a World War veteran, and Charles D. Elue, a neighbor, were preparing for a hunting trip yesterday morning when the accident occurred.

MILLER WINDS UP MAYORALTY RACE CAMPAIGN WITH AN INTENSIVE AND EXPENSIVE ONE

Says He Wants Votes of Citizens Who Believe in Honest Government and Law Enforcement. Those in Charge of Finances for Two Major Parties Decline to Give Estimates of Outlay.

Victor J. Miller's final speech, in his campaign as the Republican nominee for Mayor, were made by radio last night. The first talk was over WIL, the St. Louis Star's radio station, and the second and concluding one was over KSD, the Post-Dispatch. Except for a few sentences the two speeches were identical. In the KSD speech Miller said:

"This is Victor J. Miller, speaking over Station KSD, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Newspaper men are human. They make mistakes. This radio broadcast is no exception. I do not make mistakes. There can be no misquotations or distortions over the radio.

"Political campaigns usually drag at the finish. This one is unique. Overflow crowds attended the first meeting of this campaign.

"The interest denotes a desire for a Mayor who will stand firm. My campaign has been based on the necessity of a Mayor firm and determined. The huge crowds could not have been produced by a desire for a Mayor who would take a weak stand.

"I believe no man should be Mayor who can be swayed by influence or pressure. At times criticism is drastic. A Mayor must stand up under this fire. Otherwise he is a figurehead, not a Mayor.

"His Stand Definite, He Says.

"The lawless element cannot be pleased by a firm Mayor. 'My stand is definite. Its objective is unwavering opposition to lawlessness. A firm stand for the right does not come from weakness. It comes from strength. I have never even accused me of being weak-kneed.

"Lack of law enforcement alone is responsible for graft and misgovernment. Municipal government is close to every citizen. It goes hand and hand with daily life. Work, recreation and rest—all these are impossible without the protection of our municipality. Buildings regulations provide healthful conditions for the city. Parks, playgrounds, swimming pools—all these give opportunities for wholesome use of idle time. Without protection from the lawless element these opportunities are lost. CAPITAL LEVY
BILL INTRODUCED IN FRENCH CHAMBER

The Treasury is looked upon by many financial experts as a sound measure which can in no way be considered as inflation.

To please some of his supporters, Herriot has again modified his views on the Vatican Embassy. This change is likely to furnish material for lively debate in the Senate. Altogether the sitting ought to be of first importance, for Poincaré, by arrangement with Herriot, is expected to make a speech on France's foreign policy. It is understood that he will oppose every form of guarantee which has been proposed thus far.

Condition of Bank.
The weekly statement of the Bank of France last Thursday showed a circulation of 36,000,000 francs less than the limit of 41,000,000,000 francs, but the portfolio (bills and acceptances) showed a sudden increase of over a billion francs and it is declared, with other accounts, were used to mask the situation.

The state of affairs, it is said, in Government circles, will be revealed to the country by Finance Minister de Monzie in the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon, when he will, as has been guardedly hinted of late, "tell the whole truth" about the situation.

Exactly what are the bank's advances to the State is not said. They were given last week as 100,000,000 francs, under a limit of 22,000,000,000 francs, which the Government now proposes shall be raised by 4,000,000,000 francs.

The situation has given Gov. Robineau, of the Bank of France, and the bank regents the gravest concern. Although there is no official statement on the subject, the continental edition of the Daily Mail of London said today that M. Robineau and the regents have informed the Government that they will refuse to sign this week's statement unless the truth is told to the country.

In an explanation after the Cabinet Council this morning de Monzie said of the increases in circulation and advances:

"These increases have for their sole object the regularization of the situation now existing, which the Government and new Ministers of Finance and the Bank of France are in agreement not to continue." The bill introduced today defines the cases of wealth which must pay the exceptional tax, such as real estate, agricultural profits, industrial and commercial profits, mines and stocks, the tax thus confirming the forecasts that salaries would not be included in this category. The bill says that those failing to pay the exceptional subscription to the extent of one-tenth of their wealth will be subject to an exceptional tax to that amount or to the amount they fail to pay.

Government in Minority by Four Votes on Senate Motion.

PARIS, April 7.—The Government was placed in a minority position of four votes in the Senate today on a motion regarding the recent Sorbonne student manifestations. The vote was 131 to 134 against the Government. A question of confidence in the Herriot Government, however, was not made an issue.

Three Federal Agencies Today Requested Permission of the Chicago Department to Inspect the Book and Papers Seized

John T. Quinn, now serving nine months in the Lake County jail, is the subject of a motion picture, "The Scarface Brown" Capone and Jack Cusick are said to be the leaders of the ring. Reports that the papers seized in the "payroll" containing the names of a number of prohibition agents and policemen who have accepted bribes from the ring, particularly interested Patrick P. Roche, chief of the special intelligence unit.

Edwin A. Olson, Federal District Attorney, announced he would move with police department officers on prosecution of persons whose names were found on the "payroll" or on another list of customers of the ring. He said he had obtained names of a number of prominent Chicagoans, some of drug stores, and numerous bootleggers.

Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, Collector of Internal Revenue, also asked to see the list. The Department of Justice will investigate any charge of violation of the Mann Act which may arise.

The police today were trying to find 44 men containing 2200 gallons of alcohol for manufacturing synthetic gin and whiskey which the police indicated was stored somewhere in Chicago.

The eight men arrested, who carried guns ranging from $500 to $10,000, were released today on writs of habeas corpus.

Chicago Police Confiscate Records of Wealthy Customers and Bribed Enforcement Agents.

MODERN ACCOUNTING SYSTEM IN EFFECT

Checks Seized Include One for $15,000 From North Side Drug Store—200 Buyers Listed.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, April 7.—Evidence of a liquor syndicate which the police said has been doing business of millions of dollars a year was found here yesterday in a raid on its headquarters where eight men, alleged to be minor heads of the organization, were arrested.

Records of wealthy liquor customers, names of bribed prohibition enforcement officials, counts of beer deliveries and details of the channels whereby liquor was brought from rum fleets off New York, Miami, Fla., and New Orleans were confiscated. The raiders said they found an accounting system as efficient as that of a big business concern.

One Check for $15,000.
Several thousand dollars in checks of saloon men and drug stores, including one for $15,000 from a north side drug store were seized. Among the papers was a telephone toll bill of $247 for calls to New York, Miami and New Orleans.

John Patton, former Mayor of Birmingham, a suburb of St. Louis, was charged by Sergeant Edward Birmingham of the raiders with having offered him $5000 "to force the bookkeeping system." The others arrested, the police said, were underworld leaders, several with police records.

The office suite had a doctor's name on the door and the first room entered was fitted up like a physician's reception room. Shelves were stocked with half pints of various medicinal liquors, available for prospective customers to take to their own chemists for analysis.

Customers Listed.
In the ledgers, detectives said, were listed names of more than 200 well-known Chicagoans and many large hotels here as customers for beer and liquor here and in adjoining towns, details of the management of four large breweries, details of delivery of carloads of beer and liquor and the routes used in disorderly houses.

Three Federal agencies today requested permission of the Chicago Department to inspect the book and papers seized in the raid, and papers seized in the raid, and papers seized in the raid.

Officer of Los Angeles Suburb Had Seen Slain Man's Car Near Before and Was on the Alert.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 7.—The vigilance of a policeman of a small Los Angeles suburb, together with his unerring marksmanship under fire, combined to end the criminal career of Barney Kassel, better known as Barney Castle, Egan gangster of St. Louis and frustrated what authorities believe to have been a daring and well-planned attempted robbery of the $150,000 Standard Oil payroll.

The attempted robbery, with its unexpected climax, occurred last Friday morning in the Los Angeles suburb of El Segundo, as a result of which authorities are convinced they have broken up a dangerous gang of bank robbers.

Not widely known here as Charles Davis and "Blackie," killed by a companion robber, who described himself as Norman Mason of St. Louis, also captured a subsequent raid on an apartment in the city.

Prismatic Ring to Give Radio Fans View of Events, Inventor Says

New Device Will Let Stay-at-Homes Witness Next Olympic Games, C. Francis Jenkins Tells Scientists.

By the Associated Press.
BALTIMORE, Md., April 7.—Invention of a device, known as "the prismatic ring," will enable radio fans to see the next Olympic games, as well as hear the cheering, is predicted in a report to the American Chemical Society, in session here today, by the inventor, C. Francis Jenkins, of Washington, D. C.

He also promises that the stay-at-homes may see the presidential inaugural ceremonies from their own fireside, see a distant football game or baseball game as it is happening.

More essentially applied, Jenkins says that the extension work of the great universities can be more vividly and more recently brought to the distant farm boy and girl by radio than in any other manner, for the reacher can illustrate his audible instruction to the student in the most inaccessible place.

In military work the chiefs of army and navy, it is declared, may see at headquarters all that a lens looks upon as it is carried aloft in a scouting airplane.

Jenkins explained that still pictures are now excellently done, both by radio and by wire, and that as the speed of the apparatus is the only difference between stills and movies, the public may confidently expect radio movies soon. It is now a daily laboratory demonstration. The prismatic ring is a new contribution to optical science, the report said, adding:

"By means of this prism a tiny point of light is made to travel across a photographic plate in a succession of parallel adjacent lines, the strength of the light constantly changing by reason of the varying strength of the incoming radio signals."

ELLINGSON GIRL'S STATEMENT OFFERED
Slayer Quoted as Saying She "Certainly Knew" Difference Between Right and Wrong.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—A written account of an interview between Dorothy Ellingson, the 17-year-old, slayer of her mother, and Dr. Joseph Catton, prosecution alienist, was introduced at the Saturday trial today and contained a statement intended to demonstrate that the girl understood all the proceedings and was capable of making a rational defense.

The statement, signed by the girl, quoted her as saying she would rather stand trial for murder because otherwise she "might have to be sent somewhere and have to stay there later—the quicker the better." The girl added that if necessary she could go into court and defend herself.

The girl, who killed her mother in a quarrel over late hours and wild parties, was quoted in the statement as declaring she "certainly knew" the difference between right and wrong and understood what it meant to take a human life.

The case probably will be in the hands of the jurors by tomorrow afternoon or Thursday morning. Those attending the young prisoner at the county jail said she persisted in reiterating her determination of taking the witness stand in an endeavor to convince the jury she is sane. The defendant, according to attendants, seemed still more to fear the stigma of being declared insane than of being prosecuted for the murder of her mother. Mrs. Anna Ellingson, Policewoman, 15 Days With Prisoner, Says She Is Sane.

The prosecution yesterday began presenting evidence intended to show that the girl is sane. Mrs. Katherine Sullivan, a protective officer of the police department, quoted the former "jazz girl" as saying, with reference to the alienists who examined her: "If the positions were reversed, I doubt if they could have answered my questions as intelligently as I have answered theirs."

Mrs. Sullivan said she had known Dorothy Ellingson for four years, and after the girl's arrest last January had remained with her constant for 15 days. "I am of the firm opinion she is sane," said the witness, after Judge Loudonback had overruled an objection by the defense.

Sullivan identified four statements written by Miss Ellingson with pen and ink and relating episodes in her life. The statements were introduced in evidence. "I have come to the conclusion that the truth stands above all things," she had written as she started to tell one of her experiences.

Mrs. Sullivan said she once asked the girl how she could go to a party the night after she shot her mother in a quarrel over the girl's conduct.

"I had to do something to forget," the witness quoted the defendant as saying. Mrs. Sullivan added that the girl had explained that she danced and drank and played the phonograph "to keep from going crazy."

The policewoman recalled the interest the girl displayed in literature during her imprisonment. The witness remembered the prisoner had liked Longfellow, Shakespeare and Oscar Wilde. On one occasion Mrs. Sullivan had read aloud "The Ballad of Reading Gaol."

"Sometimes she would quote...

TWO SURRENDER ON CHARGES OF WOMAN

Men Named With Ex-K. K. K. Official Give Bond—Stephenson Attacks Indictment.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 7.—Innocence of E. C. Stephenson, formerly "grand dragon" of the Ku Klux Klan of Indiana, of charges of having criminally attacked Miss Madge Oberholzer, 28 years old, of Indianapolis, last month, will be established to the satisfaction of the people of the country," Eph Inman, his attorney, says.

It was the first statement made either by Stephenson or his attorney since the grand jury indicted Stephenson last week on charges of assault and battery with intent to murder, kidnapping and conspiracy to commit a felony. Miss Oberholzer, alleged victim, is said to be dying from poison self-administered.

Earl Klineck and Earl Gentry of Indianapolis, indicted with Stephenson in connection with the case, surrendered yesterday and gave bond. Klineck and Gentry disappeared after Stephenson's arrest. On arraignment today they filed pleas in abandonment. Stephenson was arraigned yesterday morning in court yesterday morning. Inman, his attorney, filed pleas in abandonment attacking the validity of the five indictments, charging that they had not been drawn properly, and that the members of the grand jury were prejudiced and partial.

A hearing on the pleas will be held Saturday. It was indicated.

EASTMAN LIGHTENS DUTIES
Retires From Active Direction of Company.

By the Associated Press.
JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 7.—George Eastman, builder of the great Kodak business, which bears his name, today retired from active direction of the Eastman Kodak Co., relinquishing the offices of president and general manager which he has held since 1919.

In assuming the chairmanship of the board of directors, a newly created position, Eastman, however, will continue his official relations with the company, although relieving the burden of operations of younger men. An amendment to the bylaws creating the office of chairman of the board was approved by stockholders and the retiring directors were re-elected. "Emir" Again Ordered Deported.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 7.—Prince Mohammed Said Zerkesh, self-styled "Emir of Kurdistan," today was ordered excluded from the United States by the special board of inquiry which met at Ellis Island to determine his status after he was returned to this country by Great Britain, to which he had been deported.

Asked whether the girl had ever discussed her case, Mrs. Sullivan recalled that the defendant had hoped the jury would be impressed by her case, but thought that was "too much to hope for." The girl had added she was quite willing to be punished.

Cross-examined by Sylvester J. McKee of the defense, Mrs. Sullivan admitted that the girl had taken a great interest in newspaper accounts of her case. One paper, said the witness, paid the girl $100 for permission to sign her name to stories which were to be written and submitted to her for approval.

"But she resented these articles," added the witness. "They were not submitted to her, but simply were run as if she wrote them."

PIER TAX INQUIRY IS ORDERED

Hoboken Claims Government Owes $2,372,000 to the City.

By the Associated Press.
JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 7.—The Hudson County grand jury was charged by Supreme Court Justice James S. Minturn today to investigate the "expropriation" of the Hoboken piers by the Federal Government. The grand jury was charged to determine if Hoboken taxes on the property and to return a presentment which will be sent to President Coolidge and Congress.

The property, comprising five city blocks and their piers, was taken over by the Government during the war from the North German Lloyd and the Hamburg-American shipping lines. Later it was turned over to the United States Shipping Board, which now controls and leases it without revenue to the city. Justice Minturn charged that the Federal Government owes the city $2,372,000 in taxes on the property.

The fare on all lines, except express service, will be 10 cents and the express fare 25 cents. Transfers from buses to street cars and from street cars to buses are to be issued for 3 cents additional.

Ex-Precacher Pares Potatoes and Will Look for Job—No Prosecution Expected.

By the Associated Press.
SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 7.—Mrs. Culp is once more in her home at Nappanee, Ind., reunited with her husband and two children. So far as she is concerned, her recent elopement with her brother-in-law, Wilson W. Culp of South Bend, is a closed incident and neither she nor her husband will discuss the matter.

She returned to her home Sunday night, arriving from South Bend in an automobile bus after having returned to the latter city from Chicago in company with the former Methodist and Mennonite preacher whose elopement with an 18-year-old choir leader of the Spring Valley Church created a sensation in Ohio two years ago.

At his home in River Park, a South Bend suburb, Culp talked with reporters before starting today on his quest for employment, his former job in a department store having been filled.

"There is nothing more to it," he said. "We have fixed everything up and I am home to stay. There will be no prosecution."

"My wife here," he added, nodding toward his wife, who sat nearby with the youngest of her 10 children on her lap, "has refused to sign any warrants. A prosecutor once told me that the law cannot force a man to live with his wife, but it can require him to support his children. Of course, I was really not gone long enough to make a case of non-support."

"I prefer to have nothing more said. If the wife forgives, the public ought to."

W. E. Miller, juvenile officer, says Culp will not be prosecuted if he supports his family. Mrs. Culp concealed her husband until she set the promise of the police not to arrest him. She put him to work cleaning the house and paring potatoes.

JARRES CALLED "ERSATZ CANDIDATE"

Nationalist Papers Concede That He Will Be Defeated by Marx.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1925, by the Press and Tribune Publishing Co. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

BERLIN, April 7.—Election of Wilhelm Marx, former Catholic chancellor, as President of Germany, may be considered a certainty. He will be opposed by the Nationalist, Dr. Karl Jarres, dubbed, after Gen. Von Hinden-burg's refusal to take his place, the "ersatz candidate."

While the Weimar coalition of Republican parties presents all the marks of solid unity and is preparing for an energetic campaign, the so-called Reich's block is unable to find a hopeful substitute for Jarres, whose probable defeat is openly conceded by some of the leading nationalist organs.

Had Von Hindenburg accepted, Foreign Minister Stresemann's party probably would have withdrawn from the conservative coalition, for no one knows better than Stresemann what would be the effect of the General's nomination or election on the fortunes of German policy.

Having given the Nationalists the satisfaction of receiving Von Hindenburg's inevitable refusal, Stresemann may now be expected to put through the renomination of Jarres at the meeting scheduled for Wednesday. Stresemann and his party, like the Nationalists, obviously have given up hope of electing Jarres or any other man. Instead, Stresemann now is concentrating his attention on his own return to the chancellorship following Marx's election, when the Nationalists may be expected to defeat the Cabinet and thus force Chancellor Luther's exit.

The partnership of the Nationalists and the People's party is drawing to an end, and it is only the anxiety of both to save themselves from ridicule that will keep the partnership in force until after the presidential election.

Disappointed in their hope of seizing the presidency from the Republicans and defeated in their purpose of gaining control of Prussia, the Nationalists are preparing to bolt the ministry and return to the opposition next month, leaving a clear field for reorganization of the Government along the lines of the old "small coalition" of Centrists, People's party and Democrats.

Such a Cabinet, with Marx in the presidency and pursuing a policy of fulfillment and understanding with the allies, could rely on the benevolent neutrality of the Socialists and thus command the necessary majority in the Reichstag.

Thinning hair shows that your scalp and hair roots are not in proper condition for natural activity. In order to gain and maintain a healthy growth of hair it is necessary to assist nature thru effective treatments to again perform its function, until the hair can take care of itself. Our scientific method of treatment, based on natural laws and discovered by Prof. F. A. Thomas, revitalizes the scalp and Diamonds of Renown

One of a Series

Sold for Forty Cents

THE FLORENTINE BRILLIANT

—If this 140-carat diamond had not been carried to battle by the Duke of Burgundy its career would have been quite different. But then, the Duke was afraid to leave it at home to tempt its many admirers. The fighting was hot at Granson, and in the thick of it the gem was lost. It was found by a Swiss soldier, who sold it for one florin (a Dutch coin worth forty cents). Neither buyer nor seller had any idea of the Florentine's value. A Genoese merchant who did realize its worth then came into possession. The gem later reached Pope Julius II, who presented it to the Emperor of Austria, and since then it has been one of that nation's crown jewels.

—Here is a diamond emblem that has just come into existence. Unlike the Florentine Brilliant, it can never be lost. It is made of service and effort; of courage and fair dealing. This diamond stands for much and will mean much to you, because it brings wonderful merchandise offerings. Watch for it.

TWO OTHERS KILLED ON ROAD NEAR ALTON

Unidentified Pair Believed to Have Been Laborers—Driver Blinded by Lights of Another Car.

Conrad Hopfield, 78 years old, a carpenter, of 2858 Benton street, died at Mullanphy Hospital at 5:40 p. m. yesterday from a fracture of the skull suffered 55 minutes previously, when struck by an automobile.

He was struck as he was crossing St. Louis avenue, a short distance east of Glasgow avenue, by a truck driven by James Wood, 24, of 2329 North Market street, an employee of the Wern Drayage Co., 821 North Tenth street.

Wood declared Hopfield had stepped in front of the truck suddenly. Wood was arrested.

His wife and a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Kroenlein of 4131 Labadie avenue, survive Hopfield.

This was the forty-second motor vehicle fatality here this year, as compared with 35 in the same period last year.

Two Men Killed by Truck on Paved Road Near Alton.

Two men, who have not been identified, were killed when struck at 8 o'clock last night on the paved road between Alton and Godfrey, Ill., by an automobile driven by Roy Pattison, proprietor of a creamery at Godfrey.

There were no marks of identification on the men's clothing nor in their pockets. They appeared from their clothing to have been laborers. One was about 38 years old and the other 45. One of them wore an "Igoe-for-Mayor" button.

Pattison was driving toward Alton and was blinded by the lights of a passing automobile, for which he dimmed his lights. The two men were walking south in front of him and were hit just after Pattison dimmed his lights.

One of the men was killed instantly and the other died on the way to an Alton hospital. Both suffered internal injuries and one had a skull fracture, while both legs of the other were broken.

Detective Shoots Negro Chauffeur Fleeing After Collision.

When Eugene Powers, 35, a negro chauffeur, of 523 Gratiot street, failed to stop after striking a newspaper delivery truck at Twelfth boulevard and Market street, at 2 a. m. today, he was shot in the neck by Detective Emil Pucci, who was waiting for a car at the corner. Powers, accompanied by another negro, was speeding east in Market street and failed to make the boulevard stop. After striking the truck he turned south in Twelfth, whereupon the detective fired at him. He turned east in Walnut street and stopped. His wound is serious.

Frank Greiner, 50, of the Alcazar Hotel, 2127 Locust boulevard, crossing Locust at Ewing avenue yesterday, was struck by a machine driven by Edward A. Grone of 6621 Waterman avenue, and suffered a fracture of the skull and lacerations of the scalp, hands and knees.

Doris Geary, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Geary of 2893 Etzel avenue, ran across Hamilton avenue, in front of No. 1145, last evening and was struck by a machine driven by William L. Elsberry of 1185 Hamilton avenue. She suffered a broken arm, concussion of the brain and an injury to the left hip.

Walter Burke, 21, of 621A North Vandeventer avenue, ran into a car ahead of him in McCausland avenue, near Nashville avenue, and his automobile was overturned. His injuries include a skull fracture, laceration over the eye and internal hurts.

In a collision of two machines at Spring avenue and Delmar boulevard last night, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Ruffin of 3550 West Pine boulevard, were hurt. Ruffin suffering a fracture lower vertebrae and internal injuries, and his wife severe lacerations.

Tornado Victims Sock Boy, 12, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sampson, negroes, of Murphysboro, have asked the Red Cross to help find their 12-year-old son, Louis, who has been missing since the tornado. Their home, which was at Ninth and Poplar streets, Murphysboro, was destroyed. Sampson and his wife are now living at 3136 Pine street, St. Louis.

FLOATING HANGAR 'SARATOGA' TAKES TO THE WATER

Airplane Carrier Is Designed to Accommodate 32 Heavy Bombers and 40 Combat Machines.

By the Associated Press
CAMDEN, N. J., April 7.—Built to contain the mightiest propelling engines that ever went into a ship, the U. S. S. Saratoga took to the water here today as the first of Uncle Sam's fleet of fast airplane carriers. The launching marks a tremendous stride forward in the art of naval construction, although the serviceability of the Saratoga as a floating hangar and landing field for airplanes still is to be proven.

The launching took place at 1:13 p. m. Mrs. Curtis D. Wilbur, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, christening the ship.

In an address at the ceremony, Secretary Wilbur said: "The mortal mind has conceived and put into execution nothing which embodies more of the accumulation of human knowledge than the vessel being launched today."

As she spoke the words, "I christen thee Saratoga," Mrs. Wilbur swung a red, white and blue ribboned bottle of Saratoga Springs water against the bow when it began to recede. Twenty thousand persons cheered as the great hull slid down the long ways. A score of airplanes flew overhead and as the Saratoga shot out into the river a number of pigeons flew from the ship carrying a message from the Secretary of the Navy to President Coolidge, informing him of the successful launching of the airplane carrier. Just before the launching the Secretary admonished his wife to "Give her a good swish."

The huge, queer looking craft will carry 150,000 horsepower to give her the 33 to 34 knot speed she needs. Her dynamo would furnish all the electricity needed by a city of nearly 1,000,000 population for light, heat, cooking, street cars and nearly every other purpose; her mighty steam turbines are stronger than the combined steam power of all the ships in the navy just a few decades ago; her vast flying deck is long enough and broad enough to hold two old-time battleships set end to end.

Ship Is Lightly Armed.
And yet the ship is just a monster experiment with the newest form of auxiliary naval power, air power. Her future is written in interrogation points, so far as naval experts at home or abroad are concerned; it depends upon actual, practical experience with the launching into air and landing again of the 72 airplanes that make up her real offensive armament. The ship herself is just a fast, lightly armed but almost unarmed transport to get her deadly brood of wings out where they can rain bombs on enemy battle fleets or batteries.

The original plans for the Saratoga would have set her in the water some years ago as one of a fleet of six of the biggest, fastest and most heavily armed battle cruisers ever designed. She would have looked every inch a fighting ship, the whole 833 feet of her length.

Redesigned for Planes.
Redesigned as an aircraft transport, however, the Saratoga will be one of the strangest in appearance that has ever gone down to the sea. All the tophamper has gone by the board to leave only the vast flying deck, running her whole length and spreading amidships to an extreme breadth of 105 feet. Crowded over to one side of that deck will be the reduced compass of her stacks, a cramped navigating bridge, and a stumpy mast to rear her wireless aerials aloft. She will look, when completed, like a monster seagoing barge with a misplaced deckload and all the symmetry and beauty of line that would have marked as a cruiser will be lacking.

But in the 32 heavy bombers and 40 combat and other types of aircraft designed to clear the air from the decks of the big craft, the Saratoga will carry a potential destructive force far greater than would have been the power of her guns. She will have enough explosives in reserve to re-equip the airplanes after they have dropped charges that would wreck a city. She will carry machine shops and expert mechanics by the score to keep her air brood in fighting trim. She will carry enough gasoline and oil to keep all the motor cars of a big town in operation for a week, and she will have every appliance that naval ingenuity has devised to assist the planes when they set out on their grim missions of destruction.

The speed of the ship is her greatest asset. She will be able to slash through the heaviest seas at a rate almost equivalent to a railroad speed of 60 miles an hour. Given that speed and the engine power and fuel capacity to maintain it hour after hour, the carrier could range far ahead of the battle fleet and then project her air flotilla another 200 or more miles farther to strike the first blow at an approaching enemy. She will be from seven to ten knots faster than the fastest battleship and only the most modern destroyer or destroyer could keep pace with her.

Wills $500,000 to Seven Schools.
WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 7.—The will of Mrs. Dorcas Knox Braisted, filed for probate today, bequeathed about $500,000 for the equal division among seven institutions and organizations, including Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Ind. Mrs. Braisted was the widow of Charles Stewart Braisted, an official of the Eagle Pencil Co., who died about four years ago.

ADVERTISING GIRLS! USE LEMON TO WHITEN SKIN

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug-gist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quart-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It cannot irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It cannot be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

ABEL WITHDRAWS HIS DAMAGE SUIT

Depositions as Climax to University City Mayoralty Campaign Halted.

Disappointment met the crowd which gathered in the city hall of University City this morning to hear the taking of depositions in the $20,000 damage suit of Oliver Abel, one of the two candidates for Mayor in today's election, when it was discovered, after two witnesses had been heard, that the suit had been withdrawn.

The depositions were to have marked the climax of a hot campaign. The suit was filed Saturday, alleging that Ammerman had slandered Abel. Abel said today, to prevent himself and his political workers from being kept out of electioneering. He asserted he would file the suit again, regardless of the outcome of the election.

John E. Mooney, attorney for Ammerman, felt himself the victim of a political joke, as the witnesses heard were his. Former Judge William Allen, attorney for Abel, attended the session but did not call any witnesses. Abel stood outside on the sidewalk doing nothing, which is unusual for a University City mayoralty candidate, and Mooney's suspicions were aroused. Inquiries showed that the suit had been dropped.

Mooney had declared Saturday that the defense would make an effort to prove the result of the statement attributed to Ammerman. This mayoralty campaign, coupled with University City's School Board campaign, has been productive of much interest and excitement for residents of the suburb. Speakers for the rival candidates, Abel and A. O. Cunningham, have not been mincing words.

Torchlight processions were held last night in which more than 100 automobiles took part and meetings were in progress all over the town. Men and women thronged prominent street corners and Marshal Ward was kept busy investigating alleged violations of city ordinances by rival camps. Mooney, a Cunningham supporter, said today that Abel had gone so far as to distribute candy among the school children in bays which bore the legend: "Tell your mama and papa to vote for Oliver Abel, the children's friend." Each bag contained a candy bunny, said Mooney. He thought the idea insidious.

POSTOFFICE RECEIPTS GAIN

Better Business Conditions Than Year Ago Indicated in 50 Cities.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 7.—Better business conditions than a year ago are indicated in the receipts of the 50 largest postoffices. They show an increase of $1,421,521, or 5.91 per cent, for March over that month last year. Total receipts of these offices, announced today by the Postoffice Department were $29,055,090, compared with $27,463,248 for March last year.

Only six of the 50 postoffices showed decreased receipts: Minneapolis, Washington, Portland, Ore.; Toledo, Providence and Fort Worth, Jacksonville, Fla., had the largest increase with 20.64 per cent; Dayton was second with 17.84, and New Orleans, third, with 17.44. Of the five largest offices having receipts of more than $1,000,000, Philadelphia had the largest percentage of increase with 9.14 per cent, New York second with 8.16, Boston third with 5.32, St. Louis fourth with 4.18, and Chicago fifth with 3.69.

ART COLLECTION OF CLARK WILLED TO MUSEUM

Conditions of Gift, However, Make Metropolitan Directors Dubious About Accepting Bequest.

ALTERNATE LEGATEE
IS CORCORAN GALLERY

Copper Magnate Left Funds for Charitable Institutions and Fifth Avenue Palace to Widow.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, April 7.—The noted art collection of William Andrews Clark, multimillionaire copper magnate and former United States Senator from Montana, is left to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, under the terms of a will, which was admitted to probate in Butte, Mont., yesterday. Because of conditions attaching to the gift, however, it had no sooner become public than the question was raised whether the museum will accept it. Robert W. De Forest, president of the museum, announced a special meeting of trustees will consider the questions raised by the legacy. In a formal statement he pointed out how some of these questions affect the permanent policy of the museum. The tone of the statement is interpreted by many as indicating the probability that the museum will turn down the collection. Clark died of pneumonia in his New York residence, on March 2. His art collection, which cost him several millions of dollars, virtually fills that Rococo-Renaissance structure, which was the talk of the town when it was first built. Value of Estate. At the time of his death his fortune was estimated at from $15,000,000 to $16,000,000 but it is believed the former figure is more nearly accurate. At Butte yesterday attorneys said it was not yet possible to determine the exact value of the estate, but that it was "in excess of $10,000,000." The will bequeaths $2,500,000 to Clark's widow, Mrs. Anna E. Clark, in addition to the Fifth Avenue home and a sum of $400,000 as well as all stock in the W. A. Clark Realty Co. Certain provisions were made for his minor daughter, Hugonette Clark. Regarding his art collection, the will specifies that the museum must accept all of the objects of art that it must provide a gallery to house the collection, "exclusive of any other collection," and that it must exhibit the collection separately and permanently maintain it separately. In addition the museum must accept the gift within four months of Clark's death. May Go to Washington. If it fails to accept the gift under these conditions, the will provides the collection shall go to Corcoran Art Gallery of Washington. In his statement commenting on the offer of the gift, DeForest called it natural that Clark should make the collection something of a memorial to him, but declared, "None the less, there are limitations which all great public museums must observe in accepting gifts under such conditions." The Clark collection contains 225 treasures and is valued at well over $2,000,000. There are 22 Corot, 22 Casini, 21 Montecelli and in addition 125 other paintings, water colors and drawings. The museum would also receive rare works of decorative art, among which are 25 Persian carpets and rugs, many tapestries, 45 pieces of delectable pieces of pottery, 91 pieces of majolica and a large group of classical antiquities. Charitable Bequests. The will leaves $25,000 to the Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Montana to be used in maintenance of the Masonic Home at Helena; and to DeForest, of which he was a charter member, the sum of $2500 is left for charitable purposes. For endorsement of the Paul Clark Home in Butte, a memorial to a deceased son, an endowment of $10,000 is bequeathed. To the Young Women's Christian Association and for the Mary Clark Andrews Memorial Home at Los Angeles is bequeathed $25,000. The sum of $100,000 is left to the New York Kindergarten Association as a permanent endowment for the Katherine Stauffer Clark Kindergarten School of the city of New York, a memorial to Clark's second wife. It is provided that this fund be expended for the purpose of the pupils of the school and any surplus over administrative expenses is to be provided for the benefit of the pupils as possible.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

Founded by JOSEPH PULITZER

Dec. 12, 1878.

Published by the Pulitzer Publishing Company, Twelfth Boulevard and Olive Street.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

JOSEPH PULITZER.

April 10, 1907.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

Misuse of Streets.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SOMEONE who signs himself "Civic Betterment" objects to piles of gravel, sand, bricks, etc., being put in the streets except when really necessary on account of the danger in the heavy traffic of the present day.

His point is well taken. The community pays for the making of the streets and their upkeep. The taxes we pay should be used for the purpose for which we pay them, not to furnish free storage for materials and autos. People who park their autos all night, sometimes all day too, in the streets are indirectly stealing from the community; to say nothing of the inconveniences they cause to those who want to use the streets for their legitimate purposes. Being unable to drive near the curb at night, makes it very hard for a doctor to see the number of the house to which he is called and the street flushing machines can not operate properly if they have to turn in and out past all-night parked machines.

Some time ago some one defended this bad custom in a letter to your paper on the grounds that garage rents were too high.

This is not the case. In my neighborhood, the Elsie-Godfrey section, garages for small cars are renting for about $5, including water and light, good ones, too, and larger fireproof garages for about $8.

As this is about the same as $4 and $5.00 of 10 years ago, the prices are low. The buying power of the dollar being about 62 cents and taxes much more than double.

MEDICO.

A Traveler's Findings.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SEVERAL days ago the Globe-Democrat told of the cities in the East that had come in the sidewalks to place flagpoles in and state it was time for towns in this neck of the woods to wake up and follow suit. The writer travels over the northern half of Missouri and I know I am safe in saying that there are 20 towns in that territory that woke up long before the Globe-Democrat.

In February of last year, the same paper had a half-column article regarding "The passing of the toll road in Missouri," in which they stated that the road from Jefferson City to Columbia was taken over by the State and the toll gates were abolished, which meant the passing of the last toll road. The day I read that item I paid 43 cents to drive from Elsberry to Hannibal (at least one of these towns are in the 43rd State), and they are still collecting toll on those roads.

A TRAVELER.

Inventors and Patents.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

DURING the past year, 1924, the United States Patent Office issued 40,000 patents (in round numbers), 5000 of these being issued to residents of foreign countries; thus there were only 35,000 left to be parceled out to 48 states. New York State received the most for every 1,000 inhabitants, men, women and children, Illinois, 4000, one for every 1500 citizens, and Missouri received only 1000, one for every 3000 of her inhabitants, while Connecticut received 1276, or one for every 1000 citizens. Mississippi received 92 patents, one for every 18,000 persons, and Arkansas 130; or one for every 13,000 persons.

The conclusion to be drawn from these figures is that the wealth, progress and prosperity of a state or nation is proportional to the number, character and ability of the inventors living within its borders and, also, to the character and kind of encouragement and aid given inventors in the development and distribution of their inventions.

If 10 per cent of the money lost in the 45 bank failures in this State last year had been devoted to the development of the 1000 inventions of citizens of Missouri, who can say that we would not now have several thriving industries lustily growing where several tottering banks stood before?

W. L. DEMPSEY.

City Transportation Problem.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A SYSTEM of rapid transportation, 75 miles an hour, which will carry passengers within a radius of 150 miles from Twelfth and the streets within three hours appears to be necessary today. That, under such conditions, municipally owned public utilities which, by natural limitation, must operate within city limits, can adequately serve a city is very doubtful. A municipality cannot effectively operate an electric light and power, telephone, bus, gas or electric railway utility, which, to render adequate service, must run its lines 75 to 150 miles around the city. These functions can best be supplied by private initiative and capital under proper regulation.

The problem, however, is to institute such adequate services, particularly of transportation, whether they are publicly or privately owned and operated. It is the service, not the ownership thereof, that is important.

THE REMEDY FOR LAWLESSNESS.

The number of laws passed this year is not definitely known yet, but if our lawmakers keep up the stride of a recent five-year period, in which 62,000 state and Federal laws were enacted, the 1925 crop will add 15,000 new laws to our already smothering total. And these 15,000 new laws, if the average is maintained, will require more than 15,000 court decisions, which will mean something more than 100 volumes for lawyers to put in their libraries.

How lawyers can find time to read these towering piles of statutes and decisions may baffle the layman. The answer is simple. They don't.

There is not a lawyer in the United States who knows the laws of his country. It is doubtful if there is a lawyer in any state who knows the laws of his own state. The time when "ignorance of the law is no excuse" is past. Today we are all ignorant of the law, lawyer and layman alike.

This subject of our multiplying laws was discussed by Senator Borah in Chicago the other night, in an address to the Isaac Walton League of America. Here is one striking paragraph from his address:

The remorseless urge of centralization, the insatiable maw of bureaucracy, are depriving more and more the people of all voice, all rights touching home and hearthstone, of family and neighbor. There is not a practice, custom or habit but must soon be censured from Washington. There is not in all the relationship of parent and child, of family and home, anything sufficiently private or sacred to exempt it from the furtive eye of the special agent.

What are the results of this mania for passing laws? Mr. Borah says we are strangling American democracy by "the most expensive, most inefficient and the most arbitrary form of government which thus far has been permitted to torture the human family."

Associate Justice Stone of the Supreme Court, while serving as Attorney-General, declared we were imposing duties on the departments at Washington beyond the capacity of men to discharge. Senator Wadsworth of New York, in an address at Chautauqua last August, asserted that the business of government had become so vast and intricate that no man could understand it. Here in Missouri former Attorney-General Barrett, during his term of office, frequently spoke in the same vein against the fatal policy of centralizing authority with our laws and laws and still more laws. The list of men prominent in our public, educational and professional life who insist that we are not only wrecking our democratic form of government but are destroying our capacity as a people to govern ourselves might be indefinitely extended.

In St. Louis we have just passed through a campaign in which one of the candidates for Mayor, Victor Miller, made his race on what he called a platform of law enforcement. He asked the people to accept that statement literally. He said there was no middle ground between enforcement and lawlessness. His contention was that all laws must be enforced. He pledged himself to do that.

Such a commitment could be only one of two things—arbitrary demagoguery or abysmal ignorance. Mr. Miller is a lawyer of sorts. He has no deep knowledge of the law. He is not a student and in the few years he has been practicing law he has spent most of his time and energy in promoting enterprises from which he has made a fortune. But if he had been a student and if he had given all his time to the study of the law he could not possibly know the laws which he so glibly engages to enforce.

As a remedy for the distressing conditions that prevail law enforcement is a charlatan's prescription. When the lawyers themselves, as they frankly acknowledge, can not keep informed of the laws, how can we have complete law enforcement? When the people can not know the laws how can they obey them or how can they know when they are violating them? Finally, when we have laws that are ofensive to our self-respect as responsible moral agents, laws that trample down our dearest traditions, laws that mock the principles of justice and freedom from which this Government drew the breath of life—laws, in short, that cannot be enforced, how are we going to have 100-per-cent enforcement?

The remedy for lawlessness lies in the repeal of unenforceable laws, in the withdrawal of powers vested in the bureaus at Washington, in the restoration to the states of their former authority and responsibility, in the re-establishment of local self-government and in the remorseless enforcement of the laws compatible with our Constitution and our institutions—the laws which public sentiment indorses and people instinctively respect and obey.

Doc Cook has taken his needwork to Leavenworth. How will he enjoy prison life? Oh, sew, sew.

DO BOOMS ENDURE?

A recent issue of the Los Angeles Times, like all issues of that paper, contained many real estate advertisements. One of them offered a home for a down payment of $85. There were others where the initial payment was nearly as small, indicating an urgent desire to sell on almost any terms. The latest business map for that section showed business conditions only fair. Travelers returning from the Pacific coast report conditions a "little slow." The boom that gave Los Angeles something near a record growth in the decade before the last census seems to have subsided a little. It is the way with booms.

Meanwhile, tales of marvelous prosperity come from Florida. W. J. Bryan, erstwhile Commoner, is now credited or charged with being a millionaire, as the result of the rise in real estate values. Joe Tinker, hero of the celebrated Chicago baseball tri-umvirate, is also accused of belonging to the plutocrats for the same reason, and it is rumored that real estate speculation interfered with the spring practice of the ball clubs sojourning there. There is evidence enough that Florida is in the midst of a boom, and the temptation to join a rapidly growing and highly prosperous community lures many in that direction.

Some of them, no doubt, will profit by such a move, but all should ask themselves if the prosperity built on a boom will last, or if it is for them. In greater or lesser degree, the boom town has marked the development of this nation. The rule has been that the rapid rise has been followed by a decline, sometimes so sudden as to be disastrous, and that the final test of any region is its ability to create wealth, or handle the commerce of the world.

Hence it is the part of wisdom to weigh the future.

before answering the appeal of present prosperity, however great, for adjustments follow inflation, whether national or local, and no region can subsist wholly on real estate business and salubrious climate.

THE RETURN TO ZONING.

Let us hope that the Board of Aldermen loses no time in drawing up a zoning ordinance based on the new enabling act of the Legislature which, it is assumed, will be signed by the Governor.

The new ordinance will be less arbitrary than the old, and, if it survives the courts, may be as effective. For the reason that a board of adjustment will be empowered to depart from arbitrary lines in the deciding of appeals the new law may permit of a closer approximation to exact justice than the old.

Something has been learned both by the public and by the courts since the invalidation of the old ordinance. The public has learned more of the value of zoning by having been deprived of it. The courts have learned more of the public's regard for zoning by its outspoken disappointment at the loss of the old law. In any event, if the Supreme Court should condemn the new law it would be going against the standard adopted by 13 other states. Zoning has won its way in public opinion to that point where its eventual acceptance by the courts is assured.

GERALD CHAPMAN.

So it's the gallows for Gerald Chapman. Here is material for a fine moral preachment. A long life of crime is to be ended with the official rope because Chapman, who once dealt in millions, killed a small-town policeman when he was discovered in the commission of a two-by-four robbery. Chapman's keen mentality, which planned the strategy of his trial; Chapman's agility and astuteness on the stand, availed nothing. Twelve Connecticut farmers, eying askance this glittering particle of wickedness and sophistication, were not to be swayed by sympathy or tricked by Chapman's cunning.

There is no question of Chapman's hardened criminality. He has served several terms in prisons. Nitroglycerin, pistols, shotguns and burglar's tools nearly always formed a part of his luggage. About him were always gathered desperate figures of the underworld. Perhaps no man is more saturated with the criminal atmosphere. Yet Chapman has become somewhat of a hero. At Hartford he was cheered by crowds; throughout the United States his story is followed with the keenest of interest.

It is too bad that Chapman's gifts were so perverted and misdirected. He has some of the instinct of a gentleman. He observed many of the amenities, liked to live well, to dress well, to read good books. He has imagination. He has courage and daring of a superior sort. How else could he have accomplished his sensational escape from Atlanta? How else, when dangerously wounded, could he have escaped from the hospital? Add to these things his superior mental gifts, and the fascination of Chapman becomes readily understandable.

When the jury returned its verdict, he took it standing up. In the jungles of criminality where he roamed like a tiger, such things are all in the game. Chapman has had his fun. These last hours have been crowded with things which must have appealed to his vanity. He has been guarded with most scrupulous care. He has received the greatest tributes that a criminal can hope for, the titles of "master crook" and the like. Now his crowded hour is past, and a willful and vicious violator of society's rules is destined for the bourne from which no traveler returns.

WHAT PRICE VOLSTEAD?

Mr. Vauclain has returned from Bermuda, where the Union Jack floats in a breeze heavy with the aroma of choice liquors. Did Mr. Vauclain take a drink? What if he did? His promise, under pain of forfeiting $10,000, to observe the Volstead act for one year, is not violated by what he does outside the United States.

Still, as he landed, this Good Example was importuned with inquiries as to his habits while abroad. He was evasive. "When I drink," quoth he, "I do not drink for pleasure; adding that a man of his years needs a nip now and then. All of which is highly interesting. If one must ask, "What price Volstead?" the answer is, "A trip to Bermuda." Mr. Vauclain's method isn't bad at all.

JUDAEA VICTA.

It shall come to pass in the last days that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains. . . . And many people shall go up and say, Come ye, let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jacob; and he shall teach us of his way. . . . —Isaiah.

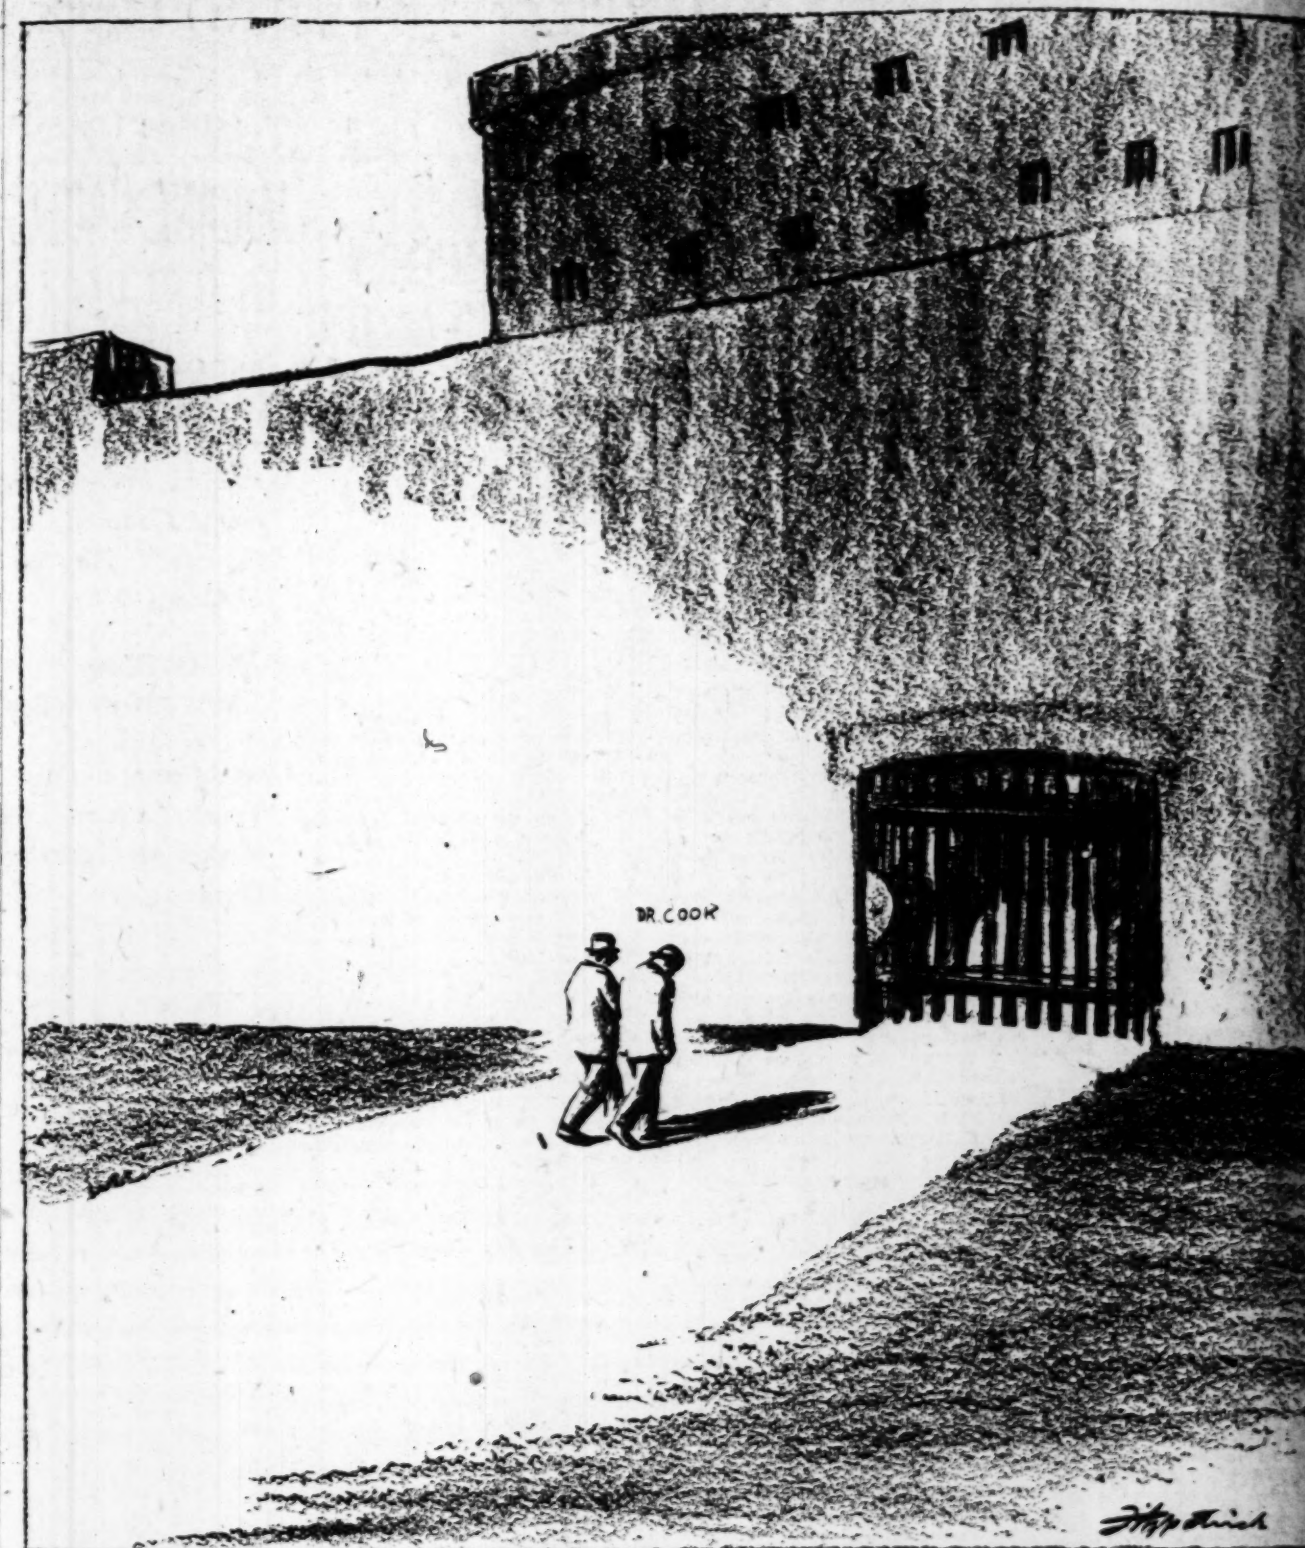

On the glistering heights of Mount Scopus, Titus Vespasian once pitched the tent of the conqueror, there to watch Roman flames lick the hallowed walls of the Temple and to direct the slaughter of the Zealots. They were written, Judaea Devicta. Titus and the Roman Empire are dust, and today on Mount Scopus stands a living, vital symbol of a conquered people's genius—Hebrew University. Now is written, Judaea Victa.

A dream has been fulfilled. At last in Palestine, the home of the fathers, is a school where the rich veins of Jewish culture will be mined by loving spirits. All around are the physical reminders of the ancient days of the prophets and the priests. Here, from Mount Scopus, can be seen the blue line of the Moab hills and the valley of the Jordan. To the north are Haifa, Acco and the Mediterranean. To the west are the warm bosom of the Plain of Esdraelon and Jaffa. Just below is Jerusalem itself, antique and holy.

Throughout the world Jews are giving thanks that the renaissance of Hebrew lore is now under way. Thousands of young Jews, mystic-eyed, exult in the establishment of a university in the homeland where they may become saturated with the learning of their race. The shades of Spinoza and Maimonides, of Heine and Bergson, of Karl Marx and Lassalle will be evoked on Mount Scopus.

The light of Hebrew erudition now has an emittance from which it may gleam in concentrated brilliance. This is indeed an occasion when the peoples of the earth, not one of which but has been enriched by the Jewish mind, may be profuse in their good wishes.

Samuel Vauclain says he does not drink for pleasure. Then why did he swear off? Prohibition whisky ought to be just what he wants.

SOCRATES AND HIS PUPILS.

Socrates: Last night at the agora we talked of the campaign. It has been unusual, don't you think?

Glaucou: Yes.

Socrates: It was made unusual, wouldn't you say, by one of the candidates and the disagreement as to the sort of man he was? Thrasymachus: Truly.

Socrates: Very well. This is what we discussed at the agora. They were kind enough at the end to ask me to sum up what seemed to be felt about him. Isn't the difference between him and the average man simply this, that he wants to be his own master?

Glaucou: Jove, yes!

Socrates: That is, whereas the average man is quite content to sit in the theater and watch someone else do spectacular things, the type to which this man conforms insists upon doing these things itself.

Polemarchus: The Glenn Young type. Socrates: Precisely. These people think of themselves in movie terms. No doubt Glenn Young's dying thought was "What a picture!" just as all people of this sort think of themselves swimming the Hellespont or dying with their boots on.

Glaucou: That is very interesting, Socrates. Is it your opinion that most of us are never heard of because we haven't this sense of the spectacular and want other people to do our movies for us?

Socrates: Certainly. We are wholly at ease sitting back in the dark. Instead of envying the people who are cutting off the head of Goliath and otherwise distinguishing themselves, we experience only a feeling of gratitude toward them that they are willing to exhibit themselves in that fashion.

Polemarchus: Something we are entirely too modest to do.

Socrates: Quite so. I think the campaign has been made unusual by a man of this type. These people are showmen, and to them the movie is more than a stage. It is a tent.

Thrasymachus: You have it. I think. Socrates: Good! Now let us go out and see if after telling so many other people how to vote we know how to vote ourselves.

TO B. H.: The theory that it sounds like "head." Is one I did advance. But as for being sure of it. I supply took a chance.

M. D. BOSWELL.

THE BIGGEST FROG IN THE PUDDLE.

Probably, upon the plane tree, Sat, and gazed at saint and sinner, In the quiet pool below him.

And the forest folk below him Looked aloft, and thus beseeched him—"Make me king!" he bellowed loudly, "I'll protect you from the blacksnake."

For we're tired of blood and thunder, Suddenly, from bush and sawgrass, Came an awful fume and bustle, And into the pond sprang Rana.

With a mighty splash came Rana, Frantic, wide-mouthed king of bullfrogs. "Make me king!" he bellowed loudly, "I'll protect you from the blacksnake."

From the hawks, and from the foxes, I will purify the water. I will educate your children—Probably is wholly foolish."

Then the wigglitails and tadpoles Gathered round the slimy Rana. Made the warty, slimy bullfrog, One and all to vote for Rana.

Silent were the birds and fishes, Rana, with his mawkish babble, With his foolish croaking babble, Entertained the silly tadpoles.

Wigglitails and stupid tadpoles, Then, at length, a mighty effort Made the warty, slimy bullfrog, Made to smear his calm opponent.

Gathered he a filthy mudball—Aimed at Rana to hurl it. Swelled his girth to vast dimensions, Ajax-like to hurl the mudball.

Heaved and strained, and lost his balance, Falling back into the water, Bank into the placid water.

Then the beavers, birds and fishes Laughed until the forest echoed. While the pop-eyed, warty Rana Bellowed "kangsters, thugs and rascals!" Bellowed "liars, fools and traitors!"

A. G. HALTERMAN.

Sir: After reading four newspapers commenting on Bill Igoe and Vic Miller—I see: "One paper says hurray! and another says bait and the poor public with really no absolute knowledge who is the best man, wonders who in the sam hill tops they should vote for. Paper No. 1 says Vic's the bunk or something to that effect. Paper No. 2 says Igoe is the man, and Paper No. 3 puts Miller on the map."

Under the rule of Igoe it is said St. Louis will be shot up or torn to pieces or words to the like of it. And then Vic's word is his bond, which scatters birds of doubt. Ask me how the citizens can know who the best man is and I'll answer, I'll bite—how can they? A man lives a respectable life in the eyes of his neighbors, business associates, and friends until he runs for a public office, then the clouds burst, dropping a packet or maybe a bundle of rocks on him, mixed with a carload of dirt and on the top of it rain falls and he is dragged through the juicy mire. The victor rises, the defeated dies and the city goes on making money or losing. The voters are still wondering whether they were right or wrong.

LOUIS PONDER.

The BlueBird people, whose troubles have plagued us in the press for a number of years, seem to have succeeded at last in grafting one bloomer upon another—which shows how badly banking and burbanking have become confused in this befuddled time.

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

DOHENY AND STEWART.

From the New York World.

THERE are two outstanding figures in this latest oil merger. They are Edward L. Doheny and Robert W. Stewart.

It was Doheny who, through Fallis, faithless Secretary of the Interior, obtained possession of the Elk Hill Naval Oil Reserve in California. It was Doheny who, after Fallis in Washington $100,000 in a satchel.

It was Stewart who, as one of Harry Sinclair's associates, had a hand in the Continental Trading Co. deal and in that transaction shared in profits for which he was counting has been made to stockholders.

It was Stewart who cleared out when the Government wanted him as a witness in the Teapot Dome suit and returned to the United States the day after the court proceedings ended. Both of these men have been and remain magnates of the oil rank in the oil industry, with immense resources at their command. Both of them are among the foremost representatives of oil in the United States. In spite of everything which stands to their discredit the industry recognizes these men as its spokesmen and chosen agents. In spite of everything charged to their dishonor in the United States Senate and in the courts, they are still intrusted with the responsibility of acting for leading oil interests of the country.

Nothing that has happened apparently makes any difference. Respected boards of directors, combinations of prominent bankers, wealthy holders of oil, continue to use a man like Stewart and stand behind him, regardless of his fall from the courts, of his professed penitence, of the fact that he was flying in the wake of the Americans as they fled from the big between Iceland and Greenland. He and his three companions were towed about for days until rescued by the American cruiser Richmond and ultimately brought to this country.

Nothing is there conscious of courage shown these men. Big business advertises their confidence in them, gratefully pays its own reward in dollars and cents for public opinion. No other conclusion is possible.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

From the Baltimore Sun.

THE Supreme Court's affirmation of the decision of the United States District Court of Maryland in what are known as the Baltimore grain cases comes as a relief and reassurance to the friends of constitutional government as well as to the business world. Armed with a ruling and a most unlimited mandate from Congress, the Federal Trade Commission undertakes, without the slightest suspicion of wrongdoing, to inspect the books and to demand the export firms which it seemed good to investigate. But we hesitate when we recall that only a few days ago this Supreme Court repeated this search, and the Volstead law was concerned, and the fourth amendment alive in the minds of the people.

Therefore, wonder what it all means, and the fourth amendment alive in the minds of the people and dead for another? Is the country half alive when it comes to business and half dead when it comes to Volstead?

DR. MAGILL, PREACHER FOR 59 YEARS, DIES

Stated Clerk of St. Louis Presbytery Lived in St. Louis 33 Years.

The Rev. Dr. Benjamin Magill, stated clerk of the St. Louis Presbytery for 25 years and a veteran of 63 years' service in the ministry, died at St. Luke's Hospital last night following a stroke of paralysis which he suffered on Friday.

He was 80 years old and during his 33 years of residence in St. Louis had officiated in every Presbyterian church in the city. He resided at 4263 C-1 street.

Born in Jefferson County, Ohio, REV. DR. HIZE, and licensed to preach in April, 1860, Dr. Magill served for many years in Pennsylvania pastorate before coming to St. Louis in 1892. His first pastorate here was at the Memorial Presbyterian Church, where he served for 10 years and later became pastor of Kingsland Memorial Presbyterian Church and of the Purdy Memorial Presbyterian Church. In later years he held no active pastorate, but occupied various pulpits in this city and district from time to time.

Was Commissioner to Assembly. About five years ago Dr. Magill's age forced him to give up regular duties as a pastor, but he still retained his post as stated clerk of the St. Louis Presbytery, resigning only last January. Besides this post he also served several times as commissioner to the General Assembly. A large circle of friends and acquaintances was acquired during these years of activity.

Dr. Magill received his education at Jefferson College, Pa., and at Western Theological Seminary at Pittsburgh, Pa., that was on May 18, 1867, and in the following years he served as pastor in numerous small cities of Pennsylvania, including Concord, Mahoning, Apollo, Union and Midway. Later pastorate in Le Wert included those at Conyn: Grove, Kan., Phoenix, Ariz., and North Ontario, Cal.

OLIVER L. GARRISON DIES AT HIS HOME

Heart Attack, Following Grip, Is Fatal—Street Named After His Father.

Oliver L. Garrison, member of an old St. Louis family for which Garrison avenue was named, died at his home, 8 Brennmor Park, at 4 o'clock last night from a sudden heart attack. He had been ill with grip since last Thursday and it is thought this illness contributed to the attack which caused his death, as there had been no evidence of heart trouble before, although Garrison had not been in good health for some time.

He was born in St. Louis 76 years ago and lived here all his life. His parents came to this city when Third street was a residential district, and it was for his father, Oliver Garrison, that Garrison avenue was named. He was educated at the old Wyman Institute, and in 1879 married Miss Mollie Siegrist.

He engaged in the coal and iron industry and other mining and ore refining projects. At the time of his death he was president of the Pilot Knob Iron Ore Co. He also was vice-president of the St. Louis Paper Co. and a member of the board of directors of the Merchants-Laclede National Bank. He was active in his financial enterprises until he died.

Garrison is survived by his widow, three children, Oliver Jr., Garrison Jr. and Clifford R. Garrison of St. Louis, and Mrs. George A. Elder of Chattanooga, Tenn.; three grandchildren and two sisters, Mrs. W. G. Chappell of St. Louis and Mrs. Lillie De Witt of California. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

$300 Taken From Stove "Bank." His private bank—the lower oven of a gas range in the kitchen behind his grocery at 4301 North Twenty-first street—was looted of $300 cash, all his savings, Joseph Janich told the police last night. The robbery occurred some time yesterday or the night before, he said.

'DUBLIN MINSTREL' DIES AS FAVORITE SONG IS BROADCAST

Frank J. Fogarty, Secretary to President of Brooklyn, Retired From the Stage 10 Years ago.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Frank J. Fogarty, 55 years old, widely known on the stage for many years as the "Dublin Minstrel," and for the last seven years executive secretary of the President of the Borough of Brooklyn, died Sunday night while "Roxie," of the Capitol Theatre, was broadcast live through WEAF.

During his illness Fogarty had expressed a desire to hear one of his favorite songs, "Fanny, Dear," "Roxie" arranged to have Miss Marjorie Harcom, contralto, sing it for Fogarty's benefit. But he never heard it, as he became unconscious Sunday night.

Fogarty was born in the Red Hook district of Brooklyn. He was educated in the public schools and at St. Francis College. Shortly afterward he entered the theatrical profession. For 25 years he was on the stage, doing a monologue and songs. In 1909 he won a vaudeville popularity contest by 27,000 votes. He left the stage about ten years ago.

WORKS OF WASHINGTON U. ART STUDENTS ON EXHIBIT

Display at Art Museum in Forest Park Chosen From Last Year's Production.

A comprehensive exhibit of the works of art produced by the students of the St. Louis School of Fine Arts of Washington University is now on exhibit in the Art Museum in Forest Park. It will be on display until May 1. The public is invited to attend at regular visiting hours.

The works on display were chosen from the past year's production and represent the best talent in the school. They include drawing from life and cast, painting in its varied departments, commercial art, design, costume patterns, interior decorating, china, jewelry, weaving, bookbinding, leather work and clay modeling.

"We feel we are a real asset to the city," said Edmund H. Wuorpel, director, yesterday, "and we want the public to see the class of work we achieve. This will not only give them an idea of the progress we have made, but will also lead to a better appreciation of art and interest in its many forms."

A public reception will be held Thursday afternoon from 3:30 to 5 o'clock. Prof. Wuorpel will deliver an address.

Archbishop in United States.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 7.—The Most Rev. Alexander Christie, Catholic Archbishop of Oregon City for the last quarter century, died here yesterday. He was 78 years old and had been seriously ill since March 28. The date of the funeral has been tentatively set for April 16.

Archbishop Christie was senior archbishop in the United States and a short time ago was appointed assistant to the pontifical throne by Pope Pius, an honor accorded to him in recognition of his long and distinguished service, which placed him only one step below the cardinalate. He was born in 1848 at High Gate, Vt., and grew up in Wisconsin. He received his classical education at St. John's University at Collegeville, Minn.

DOG SHOW POINTER IS MISSING

Squire's Cash, a pointer belonging to J. L. Criswell of Logan, Ill., evidently didn't wait to be packed up and sent home from the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club show, when it was over, Sunday night, like the other dogs, but instead walked out a rear door of the Coliseum. Since then Criswell hasn't seen him.

The dog is 2 years old, and, according to its owner, very valuable. Its body is white, with liver-colored spots, and the head also is of a brownish shade. The pointer answers to the name of Duke. Squire's Cash merely being his show name.

THE EARTH.

THE MIRROR OF

PUBLIC OPINION

FROM THE NEW YORK WORLD.

THERE are two outstanding figures in this latest oil merger. They are Edward L. Doheny and Robert W. Stewart.

It was Doheny who, through Fall, the faithless Secretary of the Interior, obtained possession of the Elk Hill Naval Oil Reserve in California. It was Doheny who sent to Fall in Washington $100,000 in a black satchel.

It was Stewart who, as one of Harry F. Sinclair's associates, had a hand in the Continental Trading Co. deal and in that transaction shared in profits for which no accounting has been made to stockholders. It was Stewart who cleared out when the Government wanted him as a witness in the Teapot Dome suit and returned to the United States the day after the court proceedings ended. Both of these men have been and remain magnates of the first rank in the oil industry, with immense resources at their command. Both of them are among the foremost representatives of oil in the United States. In spite of everything which stands to their discredit the oil industry recognizes these men as its spokesmen and chosen agents. In spite of everything charged to their dishonor in the United States Senate and in the courts they are still intrusted with the responsibility of acting for leading oil interests of the country. Nothing that has happened apparently makes any difference. Respectable boards of directors, combinations of eminent bankers, wealthy holders of oil stock continue to use a man like Stewart and stand behind him, regardless of his flight from the courts, of his profits in personal operations through a "fake" company.

No one demurs because of any of the accusations brought against Doheny or Stewart by the Government. No one protests against their continuance at the head of great oil concerns. No one challenges their fitness for positions of trust and power.

Nowhere is there conscience of courage to disown these men. Big business advertises their confidence in them, gratefully pockets its own reward in dollars and defies decent public opinion. No other conclusion is possible.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

From the Baltimore Sun.

THE Supreme Court's affirmation of the decision of the United States District Court of Maryland in what are known as the Baltimore grain cases comes as a relief and reassurance to the friends of constitutional government as well as to the business world. Armed with a roving and almost unlimited mandate from Congress, the Federal Trade Commission undertook, without the slightest suspicion of wrongdoing, to inspect the books and to examine into the business transactions of any grain export firm which it seemed good to it to investigate. But we hesitate when we recall that only a few days ago this same Supreme Court repeated this search-and-seizure provision as to automobiles when the Volstead law was concerned, and we therefore wonder what it all means. Is the fourth amendment alive for one purpose and dead for another? Is the country half free when it comes to business and half slave when it comes to Volstead?

TOWN GUARDS' PLAN
TO PROTECT BANKSMadison, St. Clair and Monroe Counties in Illinois to Combat Robbers.

Bank robbers operating in three Southern Illinois counties will meet with strenuous opposition of armed "town guards" if plans adopted at meetings yesterday of the Madison, St. Clair and Monroe County Bankers' Associations are carried out.

In addition to the payment of $1000 reward for the capture, dead or alive, of a bank robber, and the Installation of silent robbery alarms in each bank, to be connected with offices of the "town guards." Three to five business or professional men are to be deputized in each town as Deputy Sheriffs and supplied with weapons. They will not be paid a salary.

This action was taken after three representatives of the Illinois Bankers' Association had outlined a plan which has been used successfully in reducing bank robberies in Iowa. Bank robberies in these three counties, which are just across the river from St. Louis, were almost a weekly occurrence for a time last summer.

One of yesterday's speakers, Ross C. Saunders, former police chief of Des Moines and present employed by the Illinois Association to organize county protective federation, told of the success of the movement in Iowa.

Saunders said that bank robberies in Iowa were reduced from 56 with a total loss of $250,000 in 1920 to three with a loss of $2600 in 1923. "Sixty-two convictions have been obtained and six robbers killed by the guards," he declared. The insurance rate for 1924 in Iowa is $1 per $1000 as compared to $4 per $1000 in Illinois and $2 in Missouri, he stated.

The three counties brought the total to 30 of the 102 Illinois counties to join the state-wide movement against bank robberies. In some of the counties already in the organization target practice, at which bank robbers were shot in effigy, has been started.

Mrs. Anna Sneed Cairns,
Former University Head
Taking Rest at Age of 84

"Girls of Today a Little Forward," Says Venerable Educator Who Has Taught Them for 64 Years.

Mrs. Anna Sneed Cairns, venerable president of Forest Park University, is taking a rest. For 64 years she has watched pupils file in and out of her class rooms, first in Kirkwood and later in St. Louis. She has been a familiar figure at Jefferson City, urging hostile legislators to enact a prohibition amendment. She has toured many states in her effort to help women obtain the ballot.

Now, in her eighty-fourth year, she has retired from the arena. "I have been a teacher for 64 years," she says. "I have devoted myself to my fellow beings. Now I am taking a rest." There is no regret in her voice, although her active life has had its burdens and disappointments as well as its victories.

Seated in a wheel chair to which an automobile accident, confined her four years ago, a reporter found Mrs. Cairns directing the work of a gardener. In her hands was a blueprint which she consulted. "Fifty feet from the building, Jesse," were her instructions for the laying out of a flower bed.

That blueprint could tell an interesting story. It would show how the 11 acres of Forest Park University's campus, situated at Oakland avenue and Clayton road, have been cut away piece by piece to finance the failing institution before it closed its doors last year. It would indicate Mrs. Cairns' stubborn devotion to an ideal. For it was her desire to establish a university for women at which Bible reading would be an essential course that caused her to give up her Kirkwood Seminary, then 20 years old, to establish Forest Park University in 1891.

The main building was erected in spite of hardships and great financial difficulty. Additions were made and her work progressed. At one time Mrs. Cairns had as many as 150 students, from many parts of the country, attending classes in the large, comfortable halls. "I have never tried to have a large school," she explained. "I just wanted a good one."

However, the task she set for herself was too great for one woman to accomplish. Her strength was sapped by family troubles. She became involved in costly lawsuits instituted by a nephew, James Worthington. The litigation, which is not yet concluded, is over the guardianship of Worthington's eight children who have made their home by preference with Mrs. Cairns in the university building. Family discord, the inroads of age and her automobile accident all combined to distract her from her work as president of the university.

Attendance Decreases.

Attendance and income both decreased. The buildings ate up the campus as most of the grounds were sold. Now three gasoline filling stations mark the site of more than one undergraduate entertainment. A store building is being erected where trees stood. All that remains is a large lawn in front of the old building. Rooms have been rented for housekeeping to provide means of livelihood. Three of Mrs. Cairns' nieces give music lessons, the only vestige of the once flourishing music department. The revenue from the roomers and the music lessons supports the family and helps to finance the legal battles to keep James Worthington from winning the guardianship.

Although she is an invalid and frail in body, the years have not been able to impair the vigor of Mrs. Cairns' mind. She speaks slowly, not so much from weakness or hesitation as from a lifelong habit of thinking first. Her words, in the deliberate measure of scholar and educator, are exact and descriptive, and she has clear-cut ideas on most of the problems of the day. She was asked her opinion of the modern girl as compared with the young lady of her youth.

"Little Bit Too Forward,"

She hesitated before answering. "Well, I think our young women are a little bit too forward. You might call it a sort of 'forcing one's self upon gentlemen,'" she said. Then she added, "But I don't want to make that too strong. Most women are above reproach, I am sure."

However, she thinks women today are not quite as spiritual as they used to be. "But I suppose every woman thinks that when she reaches my age," she added.

The force with which Mrs. Cairns impressed her own spiritual nature on those who came in intimate contact with her is best shown by the attitude of her former students. It has been the custom every year for the alumnae of Forest Park University to celebrate Mrs. Cairns' birthday with a banquet. Despite the closing of the university, that occasion was observed as usual last month. Mrs. Cairns attended and made a speech.

While Mrs. Cairns insists that she is taking a rest, her days are not spent in idleness. She is up every morning before 6. Her injury and age have limited her activities, but within those limits she is still a dominating figure. She attends to all the business connected with the management of her help and property. She directs the activities of her large family. She writes several letters daily to former students. And when a hearing in a lawsuit is called, she journeys to the courthouse and takes the witness stand.

The Question of Survivorship

WHO KNOWS which of your own group of friends and business associates will be the first or the last to be called?

☐ Mortality tables are surprisingly accurate. Out of a given number of men, such tables can predict with precision the number who will be living ten years hence. But no mortality table ever was or ever will be devised to foretell which men will be living ten years from today.

☐ This uncertainty presents two certainties. It is certain that no man should put off making his will because he is at present in good health. And, it is certain that naming an individual as executor does not insure that he will actually serve in that capacity.

☐ Even if you now have a friend or a relative who might make an ideal executor, how do you know he will be living on the day of your death, or two weeks thereafter?

☐ The one safe executor is a Trust Company. Its staff includes experts in every phase of administration. It is financially responsible. It has no personal business to put before the executorship. It never gets sick, never goes on vacations.

☐ Perhaps most important of all, there is no question about survivorship. Individuals die, but the corporation goes on with its duties.

☐ Yet, the cost of having this efficient executor is no greater than the cost of the services of an individual.

ENGLISH CONTINUES ON BENCH PENDING OUTCOME OF INQUIRY

Judge Lindley Not Substituting for Him at Cairo, Magistrate Explains.

Pending the outcome of the congressional investigation to determine if he should be impeached, Judge George W. English will continue to occupy the bench in the Federal Court at East St. Louis.

"There will be no change that I know of," Judge English said today. "The business of the court will be carried on. Cases that are brought before me will be tried as at any other time. A docket will be made up for the next term of court and these cases, too, will be heard as they are set." Federal Court for the Eastern District of Illinois was convened yesterday at Cairo with Judge Lindley of Danville, the junior Judge of the district, presiding. Judge English explained that Judge Lindley was not substituting for him at Cairo. Judge Lindley is sitting at Cairo as a Judge of the Eastern District of Illinois, just as he would sit here or at Danville," said Judge English. "He is not taking my place."

LE PIGGOT, his marvelous diamond, and Vasilika, his beautiful wife, were the most highly prized possessions of Ali Pasha. The former had come to him a half century after the English Lord Piggot bought it from an East Indian native in 1775.

With two such prizes as these, it isn't surprising that the oriental ruler should have had jealous rivals for his estate. Many of them he rebuffed, but finally the proud Pasha was mortally wounded at the hand of an enemy.

Ali Pasha was a selfish fellow. As he lay dying, he thought only of his prizes, and ordered their destruction. Vasilika was poisoned and Le Piggot was placed upon an anvil and crushed to dust by a Frenchman in his service. Thus the world lost one of its rarest gems.

CHAUFFEUR OF MOTOR BUS SHOT BY MAN IN AUTO

Affray Result of Dispute as to Who Was to Blame for Near Accident.

Arthur Nyholm, 29 years old, 1228 Labadie avenue, driving a northbound Union boulevard bus, was shot in the leg at 1:15 yesterday afternoon by one of four men at St. Louis avenue and Union boulevard. At Union and Delmar boulevards, a Studebaker machine had a near accident with the bus and Nyholm approached the other driver for careless driving.

As he neared St. Louis avenue he saw the same car and waited until a southbound bus approached, when he walked toward it for assistance. One of the four men left their car, drew a revolver and fired two shots at Nyholm. The first bullet penetrated the fleshy part of his leg, and the second went through the windshield of the southbound bus. The men who did the shooting escaped.

ROW IN LEGISLATURE OVER APPROPRIATIONS

House Blocks Alleged Raid on School Funds Made Possible by Senate.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, April 7.—With the Legislature on the verge of adjournment, rural members of the House last night voted against concurrence in Senate amendments to one of the appropriation bills, which they charged would permit a raid on the public school funds. They threatened to deadlock adjournment indefinitely until the bills were revised.

The rural members were in control of the House due to the absence of many members, and voted to recommit two of the appropriation bills to the joint conference committees which had recommended concurrence in the Senate amendments. The House broke up early this morning with the insurgent rural members declaring they would stay another 95 days if necessary.

Origin of the Fight. Senate leaders today declared the Senate would adhere to the amendments and let the bills fall before they would recede. The fight arose on the general appropriation bill covering funds and fees. The Senate had amended the bill, as originally passed in the House, to take appropriations for certain public school activities from the one-third of the general revenue set apart by law for apportionment to the public schools, instead of from the remaining two-thirds of general revenue intended for operating expenses of the State. These items totaled $1,442,427.

Representative Bales of Shannon County, charged this was "a raid on the public school funds" and would reduce the amount that would be available for apportionment to the public schools. He declared the reduced apportionment would result in many rural school districts having to increase their school tax levies. Bales admitted only one or two districts in his county would be affected as the others receive State aid.

Representative Hodge G. Beadle of St. Louis, a member of the Conference Committee which recommended concurrence in the amendments, declared the change in the appropriations had been made to keep State expenditures within the anticipated revenues for the next two years. The appropriations covered public school operations, he said, and had been charged against the school funds for that reason.

Items in Controversy. Appropriation items in controversy were $50,000 for aid of certain consolidated districts; $27,627 to pay a deficit in teacher training course aid due the St. Louis schools; $275,000 for aid of teacher training courses in the cities; $396,000 for aid of teacher training in rural schools; $200,000 for vocational training; $1,298 to pay the State's share of $400 toward the salary of each county superintendent of schools; $15,000 for negro teacher training; $77,600 for expenses and salaries of high school inspectors and $240,000 for vocational education.

The House also deadlocked on a relief appropriation bill, carrying several hundred thousand dollars in claims against the State, not properly classed as deficiencies. Republican Floor Leader Peters fought the amendments because the Senate had struck out two claims which he had inserted in the bill in the House. Other members also opposed the bill because other claims had been stricken out, and voted to recommit it to the conference committee.

FIVE PERSONS INDICTED FOR DYNAMITING HERRIN BUILDING

Two Men Alleged to Have Planned Explosion; Accused of Executing It.

By the Associated Press. MARION, Ill., April 7.—State's Attorney Arlie Boswell has given out the names of five persons, two men and three youths, included in indictments returned by a special Williamson County grand jury for the dynamiting of the Fowler building in Herrin March 3, when two persons were seriously injured. Cliff Hatcher and "Curley" Brummitt are alleged to have planned the explosion, while three youths, Ezoo Phelps, Val Phelps and Paul Riddle, are charged with placing and firing the dynamite.

Hatcher already was in jail, charged with the murder of an Italian grocer, following an argument over a bill. The three youths also were being held, while Sheriff's posse searched for Brummitt. Prominent Herrin citizens known as foes of the Ku Klux Klan were not indicted, according to Boswell. This was the first grand jury to convene since the voluntary retirement of Sheriff Galligan and it returned 112 indictments. Acting Sheriff Randall Parks and Boswell were complimented by the jury for their efficiency.

G. O. P. Wins Michigan Election. By the Associated Press. DETROIT, April 7.—Republicans overwhelmed Democrats in yesterday's biennial spring election for minor State offices. In Wayne County (Detroit) the total vote was less than 50,000 against a total registration of more than 200,000.

Prelate Honors Italian Queen.
ROME, March 26.—First formal homage, it is said, paid by a prelate of the Vatican to the Italian regn-ing family since the capture of Rome, was paid the other day in the Italian capital. Don Lorenzo Perosi, director of the Vatican choir, was directing his oratorio,
"Moses," in the Cosulich Opera House. Noticing Queen Elena in a box, he led his orchestra through the royal march. Many incidents indicate the growth of a better feel-even though there is as yet no change in their technical diplomatic attitude.

The Service of Creating Values

REAL values are produced by intelligent labor, rendering a necessary service.

When honest, intelligent work creates new wealth by adding to the world's accumulated values—that is service—the kind of service performed by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The stock market is merely an index of values. A nation is no richer in usable wealth because of a prolonged rise in share prices, but when the shares of a corporation rise steadily in price over a period of years, that is an indication that the corporation in question is ably managed to render a needed service to society.

Men grow rich by participation in enterprises which year by year expand through efficient service. Shareholders of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) have made money because they put their savings to work creating new values. Customers of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) have profited because the combined investment of the shareholders has enabled the Company to produce more goods and to sell them at lower prices than otherwise would have been possible.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is an organization of money, brains, training and efficiency united for service.

Throughout its history it has exercised foresight and vision in anticipating the wants of its patrons and by developing methods which satisfy this demand.

It has built up a personnel of experienced, trained employees—from the Chairman of the Board of Directors to the tank wagon driver on the rural route or the man who fills your tank at the nearest service station.

This great organization is working for you.

Efficiency rules in every department, playing a major role in developing newer and more scientific methods, which hold down manufacturing costs and selling prices.

No estimate ever has been made of the power of progressive thought in adding new value—real wealth—to that which society already possesses, but such thought, carried into practice for over 35 years has enabled the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to extend the benefits of abundant petroleum products to millions of new users in all walks of life.

This is genuine, tangible service.

For better balanced breakfasts & more efficient work days - Begin with a dish of PRUNES

It's surprising what a difference they will make.

For one thing, Prunes insure an enjoyable breakfast—a cheerful start for the day. Properly cooked, they have few rivals in flavor.

And also, Prunes are the most healthful of fruits: They supply the mineral salts, sugars and vitamins that other good breakfast fruits have. But more than that, they have the natural cellulose or tender fruit tissue needed to provide bulk in the alimentary canal and aid proper elimination.

Here's a Good Rule to Follow!

Make Prunes a "habit" in your home! Enjoy them often—for their healthfulness, their fine flavor, and because they are one of the most economical of fruit-foods.

And be sure you get the best Prunes—sweet, plump, thin-skinned SUNSWEET PRUNES from the famous California orchards—selected, packed and sold by the growers themselves.

Your grocer can supply you: Sealed in our new, sanitary 2 lb. carton—or in bulk, from the regular 25 lb. SUNSWEET box. Order SUNSWEET Prunes today—then enjoy them, cooked as follows:

A Quick Way to Cook Prunes

Wash SUNSWEET Prunes, cover with hot water and allow to soak one hour. Bring to the boiling point in the same water in which they were soaked, cover and cook until Prunes are tender, from thirty to forty-five minutes. Add sugar ten minutes before removing from fire. Allow one tablespoon to one cup of Prunes, measured before soaking or cooking. If a thick syrup is desired, remove Prunes to serving dish when tender, and boil the liquid until it is of the desired consistency. A little orange peel, lemon juice or stick cinnamon improves the flavor for some tastes.

SHEPHERD RENEWS FIGHT FOR FREEDOM

Counsel Appeals to Illinois Supreme Court in Fourth Attempt to Get Bond.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, April 7.—Scott Stewart, counsel for William D. Shepherd, today announced he was sending to the Supreme Court of Illinois at Springfield a petition for a writ of habeas corpus for Shepherd. The latter is in jail awaiting arraignment, set for April 9, on a charge of murdering William N. McClintock, "millionaire orphan," and his foster son.

"As soon as an investigation was started by certain powerful interests," said Stewart in his brief in support of the petition, "Dissatisfied with the distribution of the large (McClintock) estate, and said investigation was called to the attention, through the press, of certain worthless scoundrels, who, the evidence shows, were conducting a fake school and diploma mill, and whose activities included the blackmailing of citizens, there was some talk among these people concerning the possibility of claiming the existence of a letter to the school written by William D. Shepherd, inquiring about a bacteriology course. . . . The brief continues to the effect that plans of these persons to seek 'hush money' became known 'To those who had already inaugurated a campaign to break the will, and these characters were bent to the desire of the interests behind this prosecution.'"

Stresses Olson's Activities. The petition, signed by Robert H. Stoll, who shares law offices with Shepherd, stressed the participation of Harry Olson, Chief Justice of the Municipal Court, in the investigation. It declared:

"The activities of Judge Olson have been such, and his power is such in Cook County, that with the public opinion inflamed. . . . The State's Attorney of Cook County, your petitioner represents, has chosen to adopt a policy which is highly prejudicial to the rights of William D. Shepherd, defendant, in a proper preparation of his defense. The petitioner alleges that a prospective witness for the defense was chased down a fire escape by seven detectives," and adds, "the State's Attorney at the present time holds at least four people in custody at the various hotels."

Hoerger Attended Fainan School. Winfield S. Hoerger, Inspector for the Chicago Health Department, meanwhile, admitted to Judge Olson that he had attended the institution attacked in Stewart's brief, the school of C. C. Fainan, indicted with Shepherd. Fainan had testified that he obtained for Shepherd test tubes from the Health Department containing typhoid germs. Stewart had offered to prove, through testimony of the chief officials of the Health Department, that Fainan's school was not on the approved list of the Health Department and that it would have been impossible for him to obtain germs in the manner he had described.

After a brief questioning, Hoerger, who had been located by police last night after several hours search, was released with the understanding that he would return to the jurist's chambers.

Prescriptions Are Found. Prescriptions written for Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock, mother of young McClintock, and for Dr. Oscar Olson, brother of Judge Harry Olson, who instigated the investigation, were unearthed, following a preliminary report of a coroner's chemist that mercury had been found in the organs of both bodies. Their deaths are also under investigation. None of the prescriptions called for mercury. It was announced. The significance of the mercury in the vital organs will not be known until the amount is determined. It was said, and the final report of the coroner's chemist will not be ready for submission before tomorrow or Thursday.

21 INDIAN SKELETONS FOUND IN KENTUCKY

Shell and Bone Decorations of "Stone Grave People" Also Located by Excavators.

By the Associated Press. LEXINGTON, Ky., April 7.—Twenty-one skeletons of Indians who lived hundreds of years ago have been brought to Lexington from Mays Lick, Ky., where Dr. D. W. Funkhouser, Prof. W. S. Webb and William J. Curtis of the University of Kentucky spent two days excavating in Mason County.

In addition to the skeletons, shell and bone decorations such as have never been seen before were brought back. The shell ornaments, usually the first to decay because of burial under proper conditions for preservation has been a rare thing, are considered among the most valuable of ancient ornaments found in Kentucky.

The graves were found in a cultivated field, only a few feet beneath the surface. From the positions of the skeletons it was indicated that the bodies had been buried in a sitting position with the heads toward the being forced downward toward the knees. Most of the graves contained two or three bodies. All were lined with stone.

Dr. Funkhouser explained the multiple graves by the fact that it was an ancient Indian custom, when a prominent chieftain died, to lay other members of the chief's family and bury them with their leader. The graves indicated that this practice has been followed.

The "stone grave people," as Dr. Funkhouser referred to them, buried their dead such treatment as a necklace made of beads. The excavations in Mason County revealed in a better state of preservation than others which have been found farther north near the Ohio River country. Dr. Funkhouser said, probably because of the high elevation of the burial ground.

Work of restoring a few of the most curious skulls in order that research study may proceed, will begin immediately, but it will require several years before all of the skeletons can be assembled and the scope of the find fully realized, Dr. Funkhouser believes.

COUNTRESS KAROLYI TO ASK REASON FOR POLITICAL GAG

Count to Go to Canada, Where He Probably Will Reply to Attacks He Could Not Discuss in U. S. Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, April 7.—While Count Michael Karolyi was packing his things preparatory to departing for Canada, his wife left last night for Washington to plead her husband's case before the State Department. The Countess will not attempt to obtain permission for the Count to stay longer in this country. She will ask frankly why the State Department permitted him to come here only under a pledge not to discuss politics and will present evidence on his side of the case. The Countess has been granted an appointment with William R. Castle Jr., who, as chief of the department's Division of Western European Affairs, has direct charge of the Karolyi case. Efforts are being made to arrange an appointment also with Secretary Kellogg.

Once on Canadian soil, the Countess expected to reply to the attacks made on him by his political enemies. The Count and Countess will leave Montreal Thursday for St. John's, N. F., sailing from there on the Montclair Friday for Liverpool.

NORTON FALL, WHO WED ST. LOUIS WIDOW, IS DEAD

News has reached St. Louis of the death Thursday of J. Horton Fall, retired bond broker, at his home in Beverly Hills, Cal. Fall was a native of Nashville, Tenn., and was known locally because of his marriage to the widow of Cullen A. Battle, chemical manufacturer, 11 years ago. He was prominent in Nashville for years and was owner of the J. H. Fall hardware Co. He became connected several years ago with a New York bond house and retired to California two years ago. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

CHILD IS SERIOUSLY BURNED PLAYING WITH MATCHES

Pauline Sadowski, 4-year-old daughter of Joseph Sadowski, 1521 North Eighth street, was severely burned about the body and arms at 4 p. m. today when she played with matches while her mother slept. Her condition is critical. Mrs. Sadowski was awakened by her child's cries and in tearing off her clothing was burned about the hands. Both were taken to city hospital.

Coolidge Declines Invitation. WASHINGTON, April 7.—President Coolidge today notified those in charge of the Mecklenburg celebration, to be held at Charlotte, N. C., on May 26, that he would be unable to attend. The celebration is the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence of Mecklenburg County. Announcement also was made at the White House today that President Coolidge has no plan for trips abroad prior to going to attend the Centennial celebration.

Is There Any Limit To a Womans Love?

"Then you won't go and get the stuff!" I screamed, grinding my teeth, and grasping her savagely by the arm.

"No, not for you, or any other foul beast."

—From "Dope" in True Story for May

The despair, anguish and terror of those days are still too recent for Lotta to tell of them. Now that it is all over, she wants only to forget. But William Manning himself can and does tell them. Hiding not a single detail, sparing himself no shame, he frankly bares his whole life—and Lotta's, too. He tells how and why he fell into the terrible net cast by the Dragon of Evil—and how only the strength, the unflinching faith and deathless love of a good woman helped him to fight his way back to manhood again.

Manning's story (since no man would have the moral courage to tell such a story about himself under his real name, the name is disguised) appears complete in True Story Magazine for May. It is entitled "Dope"—and is undoubtedly one of the most powerful, most dramatic true stories that has ever found its way to the printed page. What happened to William Manning might happen to anyone. Your own husband or wife, your sweetheart, daughter or son could, through ignorance or innocence, easily fall a victim to this greatest curse to humanity.

Don't miss William Manning's startling story. And it is but one of many heart-stirring features in May True Story. Your newsdealer can supply you. Get your copy today.

Lotta loved William Manning with all her heart and all her soul. And the day he asked her to marry him was the happiest in her life.

Then she made a terrible discovery that filled her with dread. She learned that the man she married had contracted the drug habit and that faster and faster he was falling under its deadly spell.

With all her might she worked to save him. Never did a wife battle with more primitive fierceness to free her husband from the dreadful influence that was destroying his body, mind and soul. But as against the power of the dread narcotic her efforts were as nothing.

From a position of wealth and respectability he went downward with frightful rapidity to the very dregs and gutters of humanity. And Lotta, led by her great love for the man who used to be, went with him, down, down, down till it seemed to her that there was no lower level to which they could descend.

But she did not know the awful power of morphine to kill decency and self respect. Little did she realize how low a victim of narcotics can fall or the shocking demands the man she had sworn to obey would eventually make upon her in order that she might get for him the drugs he craved.

Also Read These Other Unusual True-Life Narratives In May True Story Magazine

"The Fortune Teller's Daughter"—Although she was a girl of the finest ideals, there were ugly whisperings about her in the little town where she lived. So she fled to a nearby city where at last she found love—but the price was dishonor. What did she do—and what was the outcome? A true story that every girl in America should read.

"Should A Woman Forgive?"—If every woman knew how slender is the tie that binds husband and wife together, she would not rush into marriage in the first white heat of love. The wife who tells this story loved—and trusted her husband. But when the other woman—her dearest friend—threatened the sanctity of her home—well, what she did and its unexpected outcome makes a poignantly pathetic and instructive story that every woman—married or unmarried—who wants to avert tragedy in marriage should read.

"When Men Betray"—When a married woman is discontented, danger is not far behind. Had Ruth known more about life, she would not have been blinded to the certain tragedy that awaited her when she decided to leave her home and husband for the doubtful riches, love and happiness offered by her new and impetuous lover. Read what happened to her as a result of her decision. One of the frankest, most powerful narratives ever printed in True Story Magazine.

True Story Teaches by Example

No man who is made to see the agony of a girl betrayed would care to carry to the grave the responsibility of having caused it; no girl who has seen it would dare to take the risk.

No person who has seen the mental and physical torment of the slave to drugs could ever be persuaded to take that fatal step.

To the young man or woman who sees the price the criminal pays for crime, the years of languishing behind prison bars, the loss of respect of men, the idea of seeking gain outside the law becomes intolerable.

Everyone who learns the lesson of sacrifice and self-control is better prepared to do his part in building a cleaner, finer world.

Those who have been tried in the fire of adversity and have come out purified and strong furnish powerful examples for those whose trial is yet to come.

These are only a few of the character-building word-photographs from life that True Story places before its readers month by month. No one who reads True Story can plead ignorance as an excuse for going wrong.

When "Jazz" Is King

If ever there was a time when humanity needed a sobering, controlling force to restrain its mental and physical excesses—that time is now. Thoughtless, pleasure-seeking men and women—foolish, irreverent, daringly curious boys and girls—are becoming more and more indifferent to the promptings of conscience. In this reign of the "King of Jazz," discretion is tossed to the winds. It's "anything for a good time."

Thunderous preaching, moralizing, and the hurrying of precept and fable are of little use in attempting to restore a pleasure-crazed world to a basis of spiritual health and strength and moral sanity. It is only through a true, frank and personal revelation of the horrible tragedies resulting from folly and sin, that the minds and hearts of humanity can be shocked and awakened to the swift, terrible penalties of wrong. That is why Bernarr Macfadden publishes True

Story Magazine—a great national forum where, every month, men and women—even boys and girls yet in their teens—bare their lives, confess their mistakes and, by example, lay before True Story's millions of readers the truth about life so that others may see and avoid the errors that they have made.

True Story Magazine has been charged with being sensational. If sensationalism consists in telling the truth about the fundamental facts of life—if it consists in exposing the pitfalls and snares that every year entrap thousands of our sons and daughters—if it consists in warning against the fatal errors that blast the souls and bodies of young and old alike—if it consists in planting the seeds of decency, righteousness, clean thinking, and clean living in human hearts—then True Story is the most sensational magazine you ever read, after the manner in which a great evangelistic preacher is sensational.

Every story in True Story Magazine is true—it actually happened. Every story in True Story contains a great moral lesson pounded home so strongly with facts taken straight from life that no one who reads it can ever forget it. Those who hate and fear the truth hate and fear True Story. Those who have the moral courage to look truth in the eye, love and welcome True Story as one of the most powerful forces for good in our day.

Lamotte Strikes Out In Fourth Inning With the Bases Full

Warmth on the Mound for the Chickasaws is Effective With Man on Base—Siler Doubles, but is Picked Off Second.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 7.—Manager Siler chose Giard to oppose the Memphis club in the game with the Memphis Chickasaws here today. Tony Rego was behind the bat. Warmth was on the hill for Memphis.

Miss Eugene Dennis, the Kansas wonder girl who is credited with the power to see into the future to tell where you can strike out, find crooks, lost relatives, and whether your sweetie really loves you or not, told Willis Johnson, secretary of the Browns, that the St. Louis club would win the American League pennant this year.

"It seems to me," Miss Dennis told Johnson, "that you have a new player with lots of pep. He is going to help you much. You've never had a pennant, have you, and this new player is going to be very much in the public eye. It seems to me that he has red hair."

Johnson decided that Miss Dennis must have been referring to Leo Dixon. He is a new player, has lots of pep and is red-haired, and all the Browns think he is soon enough to strengthen the team into a pennant winner.

Kaw, Former Star At Cornell, Will Coach Principia

All-America Halfback of 1923 Will Take Charge Here at September Term.

By Davison O'bear.

Edgar L. Kaw, football star at Cornell University two years ago, has been appointed athletic director of Principia Academy, according to an announcement made this morning. He will assume his duties beginning with the fall term in September and will coach all major sports.

Kaw made a brilliant record in football while at Cornell University in 1922 and 1923. He played right halfback on the team and was selected on the late Walter Camp's All-America team. Kaw was also named on 15 other All-America teams in 1923. The Cornell star led his team in scoring and had a very high average as a punter.

Dean G. E. Hubbell of Principia Academy made the following statement regarding the appointment of Kaw and the release of Dr. Alfred Marquardt: "The growth and increasing demands of the athletic and recreational work among the boys at Principia has brought about the necessity of having some one who can give his entire time to coaching and the management of athletic affairs."

"The fact that Dr. Marquardt, who for the last three years has coached major sports at the school, must continue his dental practice, has made it necessary to provide someone else for this work. It is with regret that we part with Dr. Marquardt, whose work has been eminently satisfactory from all standpoints."

While at Principia, Marquardt made an excellent record. He led undefeated football teams in 1922 and 1923. The basketball team at Principia this year, under Marquardt, won 11 out of 16 games, despite the fact that only one regular of last season was available.

Bill Johnson defeated P. W. Hughes, 50 to 48, in a long-drawn-out three-cushion struggle at Peterson's last night. Both men were off form and the game went 127 innings. Tonight, Watkins meets Patton.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Charles Ellis won two games from Harry Wakefield in the National Three-Cushion league. The scores were 10 to 9 in 63 innings and 10 to 9 in 62 innings.

MINNEAPOLIS.—Johnny Layton was held to an even break in two games with Clarence Jackson. The scores: Layton, 50-47; Jackson, 21-44; Jackson, 30-37; Layton, 40-34.

BALTIMORE.—Ralph Greenleaf, former world's champion, took two National Pocket Billiard League matches from Pasquale Natale of Baltimore here yesterday. The scores were 100 to 19 in 16 innings and 100 to 39 in 16 innings. Greenleaf had a high run of 45.

PEORIA, Ill.—Henry Leonard, Chicago, outpointed Earl McNulty of Sioux City, Ia., in a sensational 16-round bout. McNulty's second round loss in the second round was a foul to the floor of McNulty in a bout that was billed to go eight rounds.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Little World's Series.

JOHN MCGRAW'S Giants this spring are engaged in the—of the delightful pastime of trimming the Senators. The series to date stands five victories for McGraw, and only two for the World's champions.

Spring series winners divide no world's series pots, so Bucky Harris is resting comfortably, knowing that his pitchers must be nursed, not forced, at this stage of the year.

None the less, the wise old owls of the I Told You So Club are hastening to the bookmaker to put down a little bet that the Senators will not finish better than third this year.

N. B.—The only reason they do not make it POLITH, instead of third, is because the Browns have failed to effect a rapprochement with Jacobson. With this boy in line and a reinforced pitching staff, there would be nothing in the American League that need scare the Browns out of pennant hopes.

Mr. Wray, there is absolutely no bearing on Plesina's case to this case.

Just from memory I will call off the differences.

First: Plesina wrestled Ad Santel in San Francisco, the match was slow and uninteresting and lasted nearly three hours and, practically killed the game there.

Second: Plesina wrestled Joe Stecher in Omaha, took the defense for two hours and it took the police and soldiers to escort him out of the hall because he made no effort and was very unsatisfactory.

Third: Plesina wrestled Jack Taylor in New York, the show got nothing but roars.

Plesina wrestled in Sioux City, Ia., I think in St. Louis, and Chicago with Cutler and Plesin, in New York with Plesin, in Boston, but never showed any interest and that was one reason I did not want to spoil my show by using him.

When the commissions gave him licenses despite his record, then I laid down and ever since did business with him quite often, perhaps reluctantly, but still I did business with him.

This Munn business is an atrocity. Different from anything else. If he would wrestle "Doc" Wagon and George Baptiste in their present condition they would beat him today.

What is the use of going into last stuff over again. I have had my little satisfaction in seeing him in the cage rest. Chances are when the final score comes, I will be blamed for the whole thing.

Millers Decline Four Exhibition Games in East

St. Louis Soccer Champions in Great Demand—Play in Boston Saturday.

As a result of their victory over the Boston club last Sunday, the Ben Miller team of the St. Louis Soccer League has suddenly come into great demand in Eastern soccer circles.

Nat Agar, manager of the Brooklyn Wanderers, who visited St. Louis at Christmas time, has wired Winton E. Barker, president of the local league, asking to book the Millers in four exhibition games with the strongest team in the East, the games to be played after the series with the Boston club.

Agar named the Fall River, New Bedford, Providence and Brooklyn Clubs. After consulting with Manager Foley of the Millers and other league officials, Barker advised Agar that no propositions could be accepted until after the game with Boston at Boston next Saturday.

Vespers May Play Henses.

A return game between the Hense team of the Municipal League and the Vespers of the St. Louis Soccer League may be played at St. Louis University field next Sunday. Negotiations for such a game have been opened.

The Henses won from the Vespers recently, 1 to 0.

Manager Foley of the Ben Millers is confident that his team will make a better showing Saturday at Boston than it did on its home field. Eddie Dunn, regular outside right, will replace Syl Curran, Curran played an entirely satisfactory game last Sunday, but young Dunn is faster and, in the St. Louis scheme, is more valuable for that reason. No other change in lineup is contemplated.

The Miller club will not depart until Thursday noon.

Joe Stecher Opposes Vadalfi In Bout at Coliseum Tonight

Scissors King Expected to Halt March of Italian Favorite — Jim Londos Meets Steinburn of Germany in Semifinal Bout of Wrestling Card.

Oreste Vadalfi, of Italy, who has been credited with victories over Jim Londos, Dan Koloff, Dick Davis and other lesser heavyweight wrestlers, faces the most severe test of his career tonight when he opposes Joe Stecher of Nebraska in the main event of the Coliseum show.

In brushing aside Londos, Koloff, Davis and others, Vadalfi has not been particularly impressive except for the fact that he has proved he has great strength in his arms. Stecher, on the other hand, has lost to no second rate nor to any other real contender for the heavyweight championship since he dropped his title to Ed Lewis four years ago.

Unless Stecher suddenly shows a very shocking reversal of form, Vadalfi's march to the upper crust of title contenders will be stopped abruptly.

Jim Londos is scheduled to meet Milo Steinburn, a German, in the semifinals, and George Tragos will oppose Rex Smith in the preliminary.

The advance sale indicates one of the largest crowds of the season will attend tonight's show. Vadalfi has won a large following in the course of his six months' wrestling here and Stecher has always been a popular idol of local fans.

Stecher Has Been Busy.

Stecher's last appearance here was about one month ago when Frank Judson, former Harvard coach, held the Nebraska to a draw in a time limit bout. Since then Stecher has been held to a draw in a time limit affair by Renato Gardini and he has defeated Ad Santel and Ivan Zaikin, the Russian.

MEDITATIONS —OF A— MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE WHITE MAN'S BURDEN.

THERE are times when every man secretly suspects that woman was sent into the world for the sole purpose of making a man suffer.

If there were no women in the world, a man could be perfectly comfortable and happy, shaving twice a week, going around in a buffalo robe or his fishing clothes, and never worrying about his complexion, or the future of his soul.

It is woman's love of beauty that drives a man to hide his Adam's apple, and that red-white-and-blue column he calls his neck, under a castiron collar that chafes his chin in winter, and wits beneath it in summer.

It is for woman's sake that he backs into a stiff evening coat, and suffers through live or six hideous hours, trying to keep his hard-boiled shirt bosom from bulging.

It is woman who thinks up harrowing ways of spending an evening when he might be enjoying himself.

It is she who serves eight-course dinners, made up of little bites of disguised food, when he is longing for a thick slice of rare roast beef and a baked potato.

It is woman who puts up lace curtains so that he can't see out of the windows and covers all the lights with pink shades so that he can't see what he's reading or find what he's looking for.

It is she who polishes the floors so that she slides all over them, and puts down rugs so expensive that he can't walk on them in his muddy boots, without giving her a brainstorm.

It is woman who invented love-making, and insists on all the preliminary red-tape of flirtation and romance, through which he has to go, in order to get a kiss.

It is woman who drags him to church, art exhibits, highbrow plays and grand opera, when his soul is yearning for a game of golf, a prize-fight, a girl show, or a nap.

It is woman who insists on "filling his life" and overflowing into his spare time, when all he wanted was a summer afternoon's sentimental diversion.

It is woman who persists in idealizing him, and setting up standards of virtue, manner, culture and ambition for him to live up to—and then suing him for alimony, when he doesn't.

It is woman who tidies up his desk, cleans his pipe, throws away his old shoes, hides his fishing tackle, and makes him wear dark blue ties, when his heart is sighing for passionate reds and yellows.

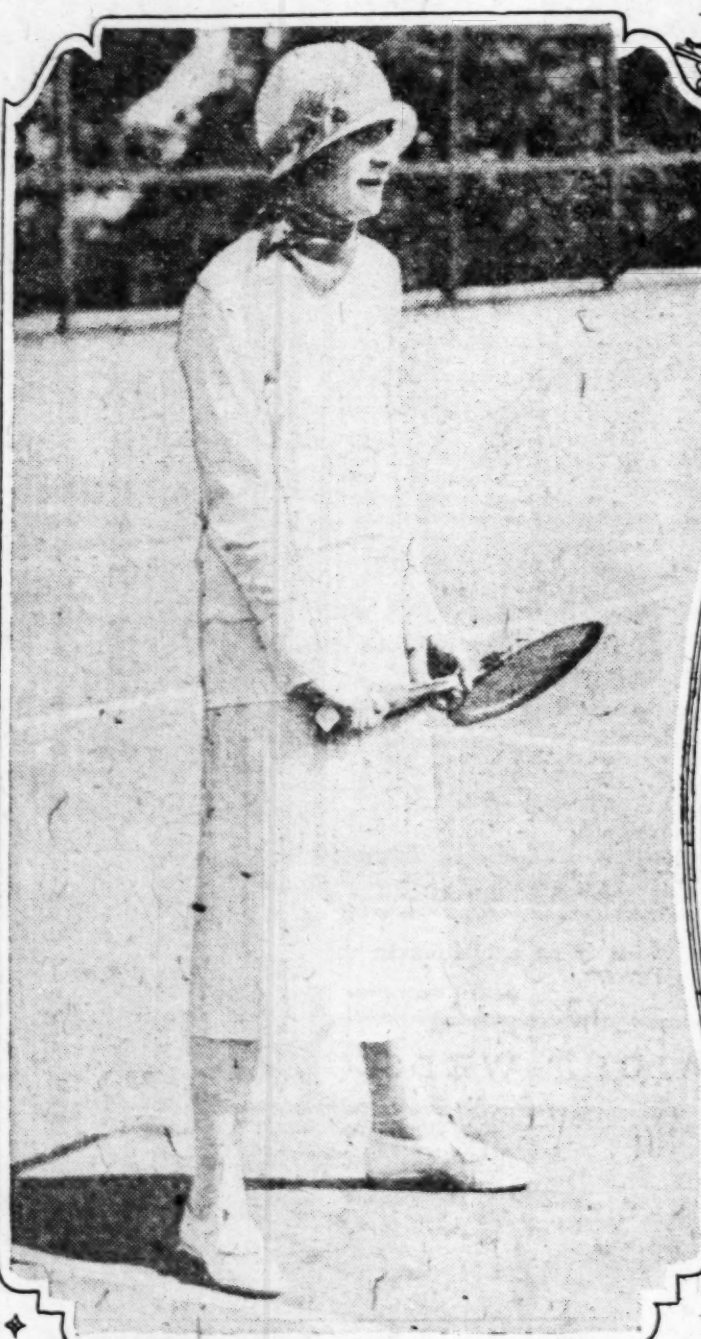

It is woman who insists on being loved when he only wanted to play, or being flattered when he wanted to talk about himself, and on being married when he only wanted to be left alone.

It is WOMAN, who robs him of his wild bachelor freedom, drags him through the horrors of a wedding ceremony, makes him buy a house in the suburbs, and keeps his nose to the grindstone forever afterward.

In short, it is woman who turns him from a happy savage into a tame but rebellious civilized being! No wonder he growls at her, now and then, and thinks of her always as "the white man's burden."

Cabbage Rolls.

Take 1 lb. of rice, allow to come to a boil and strain; 1 lb. of ground pork, 1 onion, grated and salt and pepper to taste. Mix all of this well. Take a soft head of cabbage, cut out the core as much as possible so the leaves will be loose, put in a kettle of boiling water, allow to stand till the leaves get nice and soft, then separate each leaf, cut the stem off so it will be flat with the leaf. Take a spoonful of the meat and rice mixture, put in the center of a leaf, fold the sides over the roll, starting with the stem end first. This is piled into a kettle, into which put some leaves on the bottom first. When the kettle is full put more leaves on top, also pieces of bacon or ham; pour boiling water over all, set in an oven, bake till done. This is very good with butter or cream sauce.

Chocolate Layer Cake.

Two cups brown sugar, 1/2 cup butter or lard, salt, 2 egg yolks, 2 cups flour (sifted before measuring), 1/2 cup sour milk, 1/2 cup hot water, 1 cup grated chocolate or cocoa, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 2 egg whites, cream, together butter and sugar, add egg yolks, 1 cup flour, then add milk into which soda has been stirred. Add hot water, chocolate, 1 cup flour and baking powder. Lastly fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in moderate oven about 25 minutes. This makes two large layers. Make a white filling of 1/2 cup butter, 1 cup powdered sugar, 1 cup chopped nuts and a little hot water. Beat well, spread between layers and put the following icing on top: 1 1/2 cups powdered sugar, 1 square bitter chocolate (melted), enough evaporated milk to make consistency that will spread easily. (Be sure to have no lumps in the brown sugar.)

Children's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

The Drumming Log

The folks who really see are few;
Most think they see, but never do.

—Old Mother Nature.

PETER RABBIT had said that the log on which Thunderer the Grouse drummed was hollow, and Jumper the Hare had grinned in a most provoking manner and told Peter that he didn't know what he was talking about, for if he hadn't looked to see he couldn't know that that log was hollow.

"Thunderer isn't using a hollow log now," declared Jumper, as they listened to the long, rolling booms that sounded like distant thunder. "Is the log you have seen him drumming on over where the sound is coming from, Peter?"

Peter had to admit that it was. At least, that sound seemed to be coming from very near the place where he had watched Thunderer on a certain mossy old log more than once.

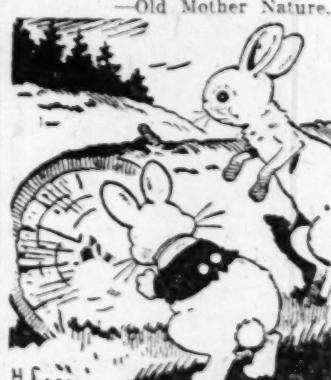

"There is only one log over there that Thunderer ever drums on, and that must be the one you have seen him on," declared Jumper the Hare. "And, Peter, dear, it isn't hollow."

"I know better!" snapped Peter. "Of course it is hollow. You say he doesn't strike the log with his wings in order to make that noise. Then how does he make it?"

"That I can't explain exactly," replied Jumper.

"Of course you can't!" cried Peter, triumphantly. "I tell you what, Jumper, let's go right over there now, and if Thunderer is still there we'll watch him drum. That will settle the question."

Jumper grinned, for he had watched Thunderer drum many times and never had been able to decide just how he made that noise. But he agreed, and they headed for the place where Thunderer was drumming. When they came in sight of an old log they saw Thunderer the Grouse standing on it. He had just stopped drumming and appeared to be listening. Peter and Jumper stopped

"Look at the ends and see if it is hollow," Jumper demanded.

They hoped to see Thunderer drum again. But to their great disappointment he spread his wings and whirled away.

"Anyway, we'll look at the log, Thunderer's drumming log," said Jumper, and led the way.

It was an old log. It was a very old log. It was such an old log that it was covered with moss.

CHAPTER XX PRIDE TRIUMPHS

THE minutes passed as this sat dreaming beside the quiet fire. Craig Cullam watched his heart in his eyes.

Finally, with a start, looked up, met his gaze there something that set him to beating tumultuous cheeks. Her eyes were red lips parted.

Cullam made an involuntary movement toward her. The solitude, the girl he had loved in years. She felt it was almost too much for self control. His arm reached to crush her to him—remembered.

In that moment, Doris sprang up, with a deeper look in her cheeks. She had been frightened by the momentary tenacity of the moment.

"This is charming—afraid it's high time we turning back to town."

The sound of her voice, its casual sentence, the delicious fear which had been her slowly subsided.

But to Craig Cullam, as proud as she, her utter rebuff and a rebuff, he dropped to his knees, thanked her for restraining from making a fool of himself. It was the bitterest moment of his life. He honestly believed that he had dispelled the mists of the moment deliberately to show her must not overstep the bounds of cordial friendship.

With that thought in his mind, he turned to leave. The quiet, cheerful manner which he was capable of for nothing that he was doing of the moment of the young man. The role he played in return ride to town was a bit of histrionics. He was away aimably on his way, his eyes on the ground, his feet, his hands, his head, his heart, his soul, his mind, his body, his spirit, his life, his death, his resurrection, his glory, his honor, CHAPTER 22.

PRIDE TRIUMPHS.

THE minutes passed while Doris sat dreaming on the edge of the quiet little room. She was wrapped in its twilight peace. Craig Cullum watched her his heart in his eyes.

Finally, with a start, she looked up, met his glance, there something that set her to beating tumultuously brought the swift color to her cheeks. Her eyes widened, red lips parted.

Cullum made an involuntary movement toward her. The solitude, the girl he loved, it was almost too much for self control. His arms half-extended to crush her to him—before remembered.

In that moment, Doris sprang up, with a deeper crimson in her cheeks. She had said, frightened by the emotional intensity of the moment:

"This is charming—but afraid it's high time we were turning back to town."

The sound of her own voice, its casual sentence staled. The delicious fear which had so slowly subsided.

But to Craig Cullum, every as proud as she, her action was a rebuke. He had dropped to his knees. Silently thanked her for restraining him from making a fool of himself. It was the bitterest moment of his life. He honestly believed that had dispelled the magic of the moment deliberately to show him he must not overstep the bounds of cordial friendship.

With that thought in mind, he tried to reassure her by doing the quiet, cheerful manner which he was capable. It was for nothing that he was hailed as the finest of the younger set. The role he played on the return ride to town was a part of his histrionics. He always amiably on impersonal feet, dismissed the progress of elegant change, outlined plans for the future. He allowed dangerous silence to creep into the dialogue, and he drove at a clip, apparently quite oblivious of the lovely vista of fields and woods in the clear moonlight.

Doris rose to the occasion. She met his apologetic mood perfectly. When they reached her door, she thanked him for a charming evening, called good-night, and sped up to her apartment.

Once inside, with the familiar door closed behind her, she drew a deep, tremulous breath, tossed her hat to the floor, collapsed in a wretched little heap on the nearest chintz-covered sofa.

She cried, stormily, heartily, only, steadily.

Tears didn't come easily to Doris. Unlike Mariana, she never shed quick solace in weeping.

She cried, it was over some of the vexing little problems which brought tears to feminine eyes. Doris with small head proudly high, biting her under-over two assets which had been bestowed upon her at birth and toward which she had no sense of personal accomplishment. Her money meant to her nothing more than a means of existing comfortably and daintily and providing generously for others less fortunate than herself. She mingled freely with people and felt no different from them. As for her social position, she had turned over the task of doing the family honors in that line to Mariana, who liked it, and had basked herself in the fields of activity where she found a pleasant sense of usefulness and was immensely entertained as well.

In her love for Craig Cullum she had been quite blind to the fact that her own former attitude toward stage people was shared by the members of her world to a large extent—and that Cullum was quite cognizant of it. If, a month or two ago, someone had told Doris tonight she would be crying her heart out for love of an actor, she would have laughed him to scorn. She, like others of her world, had greeted, with the usual shrug and uplifted brows, the story blazoned over so often in the newspapers of another rich man's son grabbed off by an actress. When occasionally it was announced that an actor had married a prominent woman, there was not quite so much notoriety, but the obvious worldly inference was that she must have been rich, or was otherwise one of those pitiful old creatures in their second childhood.

With this line of reasoning again running like a scarlet thread through the drab haze of her tears, Doris, aided and abetted by her pride, came to a resolve, which she proceeded to put into execution on the morrow.

The Easter Gift

It has become quite a general custom to exchange Easter gifts. These gifts, however, are not the same as the gifts exchanged at Christmas time. They are of a different nature. They are of a different nature. They are of a different nature.

There are exquisite receptacles for holiday trifles among the Italian and Chinese dishes and they are inexpensive. The housewife would like an addition to her silver or china closet. Those break-est egg sets are appropriate. A porch basket with the convenient handle might please her. You would get some fun, yourself, out of a musical teapot for her. Then for the man there are melodious poker sets and cigarette cases that play a tune.

Junior would be glad to get a set of military brushes, just right for him, all packed in a round "gold" gift box. In the line of small tokens, there are those rabbit bean bags for the girls and for the baby there is a novel wooden bunny to hold the milk bottle.

Then there are dainty illustrated books—an ideal Easter gift—and you will find a large array of exquisite pictures and photo frames.

In the stationery department are many suggestions: book-ends, desk accessories, books to paste the snapshots in and others to jot down interesting items of the summer vacations.

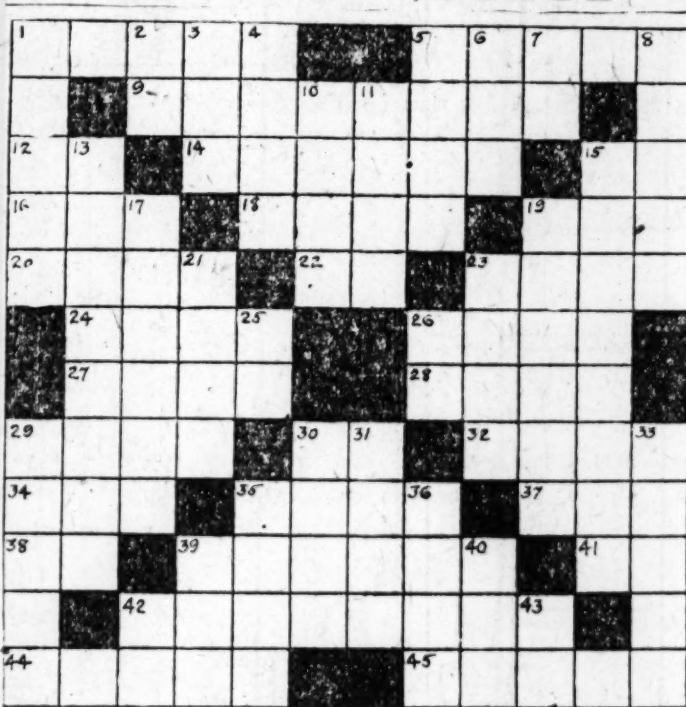

Matchless in Fragrance!

LES POUDRES DE COTY

An exquisite revelation of new loveliness comes to women when they use COTY Face Powders for the first time. The delicately soft clinging texture, the shades true to each type of coloring, the haunting perfume of the COTY odors, give an idealization to beauty, irresistible in its appeal.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

In the stationery department are many suggestions: book-ends, desk accessories, books to paste the snapshots in and others to jot down interesting items of the summer vacations.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

Each word reads from left to right (horizontal) or downward (vertical), according to position. Lettered in correctly, words that cross will interlock.

Each number in the white squares also refers to a definition in the accompanying table.

Each definition suggests a word possessing the exact number of letters to fit the white space allotted to it.

Each white space is to receive one letter only. Words start only in numbered squares.

The Tokyo Electric Bureau has decided to employ 300 girl conductors on its lines as a means of reducing expenses. The girls will be paid from $25 to $35 a month.

FASHION FADS AND FANCIES

By Mildred Ash.

MODESTY or Mystery? Which is the motive for adopting baggy trousers, of the same material as the frock, to wear beneath afternoon and evening gowns? Certainly they prevent such a generous display of silk stockings as is otherwise given when one sits down in these short frocks, but whether the wearer is shy or merely desirous of maintaining an alluring mystery about her shape cannot easily be determined.

The Height of Fashion will be evidenced this spring—many of the smartest coats, ensemble costumes and afternoon frocks by choker collars, cut in one piece with the fabric used. They give a very distinctive, extreme appearance but seem hardly practical for warm days.

To Be or Not to Be bobbed seems to be the all-important question of the smart woman who is trying to decide whether to keep her hair youthfully short or to let it grow to its former length. There are so many attractive hair ornaments to be worn with either long or short locks that the ranks of the long and the short-haired seem to be evenly divided. Reproductions of antique filigree metal headbands—incrusted with semiprecious stones—are the swiftest hairdress for formal occasions.

Bagging Her Prey has nothing to do with the huntress, but with the woman who can admirably manage to have her admirers desirous of presenting her with a large and varied assortment of bags; for she cannot have too many. These should be a bag to match each costume unless she is at a Southern resort and then the bag she will carry will assuredly be white. However, white beaded or embroidered, kid or silk are used at different times of the day, so it is not amiss to have several white purses.

Self Control in the Child

By CAROLYN LISBERGE

Lecturer and Writer on the Bringing Up of Children

IT is a coincidence that two people came to me recently with the same complaint about children in different homes. One of these was a cook applying for a job.

"Why are you leaving your last place?" I asked her.

"Because I don't like the way I am treated by the 16-year-old daughter," was her answer. "She stamps her foot at me."

An hour afterward I heard a French teacher complain about a boy pupil of 7. "He pays no attention, I say to him, 'Your muzzer, she pays for your lessons and I want to see you learn.' Then he says he hates French—and stamps his foot at me."

It no doubt annoys the mother of a small child to see him stamp his foot when given an order that displeases him. But once she has permitted the child to think he can use this gesture whenever annoyed, the first breach in the youngster's self control has been made.

A successful educator advises us in our effort to break the habit often formed by the child of expressing anger by pushing the offending object away, or kicking or striking or footstamping, that we use caution in the time selected to attack it. "Avoid occasions of anger, especially when the child is hungry or otherwise in irritable mood. The reaction following a futile outburst of anger is likely to arouse reflections which if skillfully directed may lead to future efforts at self control."

Parents should not confuse the idea preached by progressive educators today that children should be given complete freedom to express themselves. They should always bear in mind that self-control is an invaluable asset and anything they can do to inculcate this will add to the child's success in life.

You Should Serve—

THE following relishes with French dressing for the dinner course, unless the main dish is inadequate or of a light nature.

Only the simple green salads with French dressing for the dinner course, unless the main dish is inadequate or of a light nature.

Four good sized raw oysters on each individual plate of cracked ice for the first dinner course.

Hot foods on very hot dishes and have the plates well heated, as nothing spoils a meal more than having hot foods served lukewarm.

New England Boiled Dinner.

Select a nice piece of corned beef wash it and cover with cold water. When it has boiled 10 minutes pour off the water, add fresh boiling water and continue boiling. When the meat begins to be tender, add a pared yellow turnip cut in thick slices and a small cabbage. A half hour before the meat is done skin well and add eight pared potatoes. Meantime boil eight beets, to be done at the same time. Place the meat on a platter and the vegetables in separate containers, first dusting them with pepper and salt and dotting them with lumps of butter.

Hot Cross Buns! Special this week.

A famous Lenten treat—made extra good with Sun-Maid Raisins.

I bake them every day this week—rich, fruity, Hot Cross Buns, full of old-time goodness.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Smoother Chocolate.

If the chocolate is inclined to flake in a pudding, beat it vigorously with an egg beater while it is still in the double boiler.

About the Match Box.

Matches should be kept in a metal container high out of the reach of the tiny hands, never on the side of the gas range as I have seen some thoughtless women do. Keep the lid on the box between meals so a stray mouse cannot cause trouble.

Soap for Cleaning Carpet.

Just about now we are thinking about what we'll do at house-cleaning time and a good carpet cleaner is bound to be welcome. Two large cakes of pure white soap, one-half pound powdered borax, 4 cents' worth aqua ammonia, 4 ounces ether. Cook the soap and borax in 2 gallons cold water until dissolved. Add 4 gallons cold water and the ammonia and, lastly, the ether.

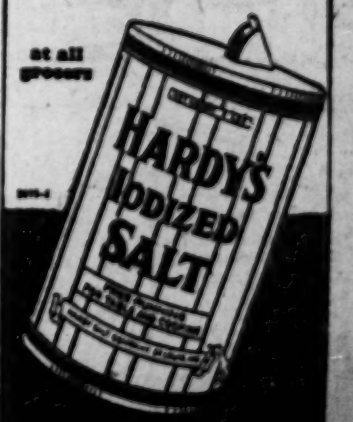

Simple Goiter can be prevented

Goiter is an enlargement of the thyroid gland, usually caused by lack of iodine in food. Recent surveys among schools and colleges show that from 40 to 70 per cent of the pupils examined have goiter or are afflicted with deficiency diseases that can be traced directly to absence of iodine in food.

Hardy's Iodized Salt supplies this vital mineral in just the proper amount. It is the most economical health insurance for your family. Foremost physicians heartily recommend it.

The Man on the Sandbox

by L. Evans

OLD SONGS MADE NEW.

In a seat on the veranda, sat old Silas and Miranda, Thinking of the days gone by:
Said he: "Deary, don't be weary, you were always bright and cheery,
But a tear now dims your eye."
Said she: "Si, I'm now a voter, to the polls we ought to motor,
But, of clothes I haven't got a single shred;
I should vote in this election but I have no spring confection."
Then he turned to her and said:
"Put on your old gray bonnet with the blue ribbons on it,
While I crank the Elizabethan shay;
Be it raining or snowing to the polls we're going
For today's election day."

QUITE SO.

The man on the sandbox says don't forget that today we all have a civic duty to perform. Every public-spirited citizen should vote at least once.

Vote for the sanctity of the home and fireside. If you have no fireside throw the protection of the ballot around the old radiator.

Vote as your conscience dictates. Anybody is liable to make a mistake.

We hold no brief, but would be willing to lay a little 100 to 1 on the lawyer.

Judge Hall views with alarm. Says the Democrats only want a minority in the Board of Aldermen so they could stop the progress of the city. Same being what Br'er Goldberg would call a lot of boloney.

Those Democrats must be terrible fellows! How about a little firing squad at sunrise?

Quite a crop of kale to harvest in one year.

It has been charged that Chilhewee was doped in the Coffroth Handicap. In other words he was doped to win and then doped to lose.

Tommy Gibbons claims he is the "logical" heavyweight champion of the world. He stands to fight any body for the logical heavyweight crown.

Jack Dempsey may not be a logical champion but he is still pretty well thought of in sporting circles.

See where France is faced by a money crisis. We sympathize, having been faced by several of those very same things ourself.

The only cure for a money crisis is dough in herold doses.

"Murders in Chicago Exceed All Records."

Indicating that all the Democrats are not in St. Louis.

Babe Ruth is the heaviest hitter in either league. And he's getting heavier all the time.

YOUR NOSE KNOWS.

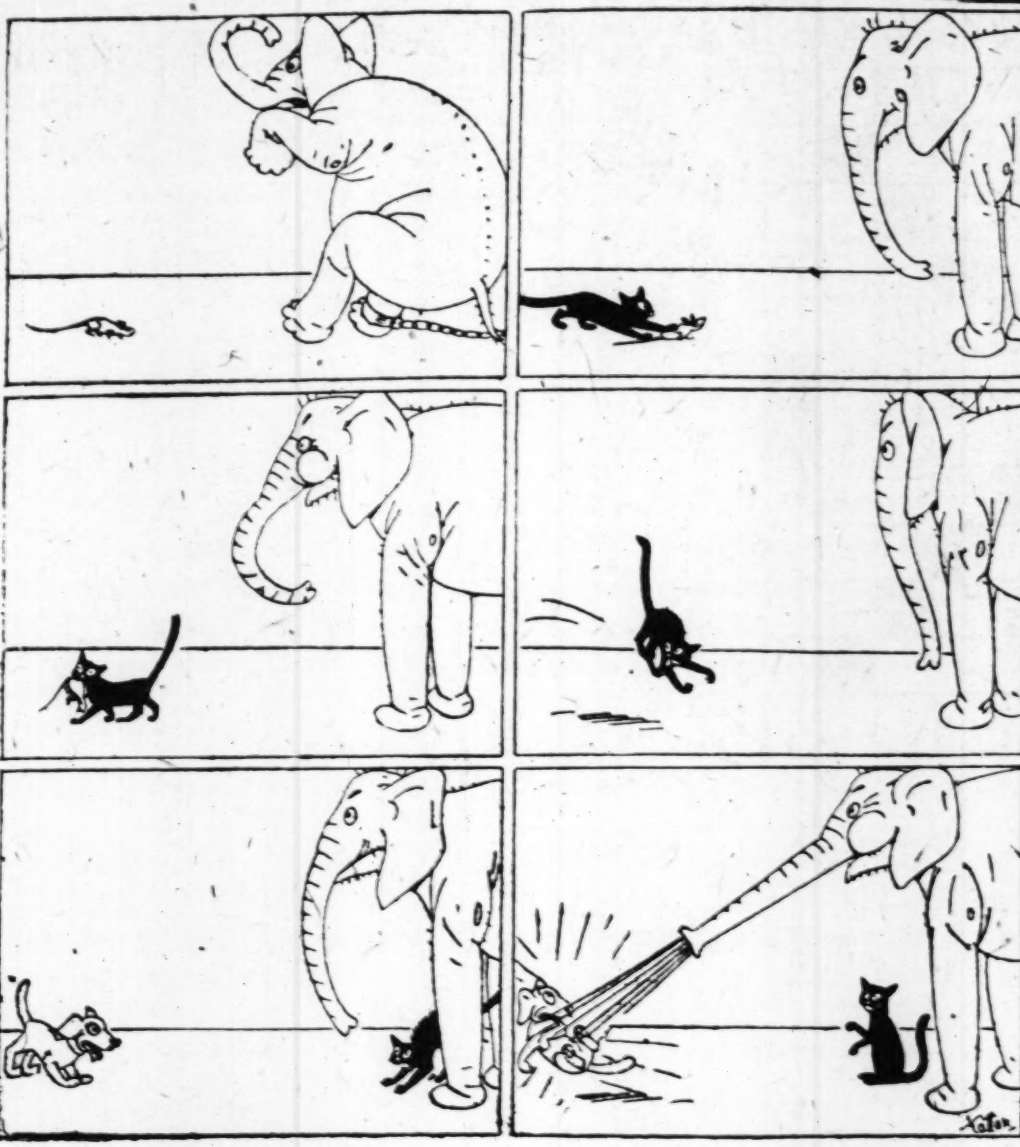

Jack Dempsey is said to favor his nose since having that classic feature of his facial frontage re-modeled for the movies. Jack may have some trouble when he blows his nose, but he knows his blows have lost none of their punch.

See where a soccer player in the East was suspended for life, another for seven years and a third drew a five-year vacation for pulling the rough stuff. Outside of that the boys got off pretty light.

However, into each life some rain must fall, as the feller says.

LILLIAN M'KENZIE, KIDNAPED IN 1923, FOUND BY PARENTS

Identification at Englewood, N. J., Ends Nation-Wide Search—Child Was Stolen From Baby Carriage.

DOCTOR'S REPORT LEADS TO DISCOVERY

Woman Said to Admit Child Is Not Hers, but Contends She Was Given to Her.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 2.—Prosecutor Hart of Bergen County New Jersey, informed New York police headquarters today from Hackensack that Mr. and Mrs. Peter McKenzie had positively identified a child known as Mildred Grofe, found in Englewood, N. J., as their daughter, Lillian, who was kidnapped here in August, 1923.

The identification ends a search in which police of more than 9000 cities in the United States and Canada were asked to aid.

The child identified by Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie as their own, had been living in Englewood, as Mildred Grofe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Grofe. Mannerisms of the child and facial characteristics, Hart told Police Captain Ayers, indicated beyond any doubt that the child was the missing Lillian McKenzie.

Says Girl Was Given to Her.
The prosecutor said that Mrs. Grofe had said the girl was not her own but that it was given to her by a "Dr. Green." This "Dr. Green," Captain Ayers said, was quoted by Prosecutor Hart as saying that he had obtained the girl when a young baby, from an unnamed mother named Sullivan.

Lillian McKenzie was kidnapped from her perambulator in front of 29 Eighteenth street department store in Manhattan when she was 2 months old. In the country-wide search for her, views were followed in Hoboken, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Washington and other cities and towns. Roy Scouts, Girl Guides and the Salvation Army joined in the search.

Doctor Gave Tip.
The search was turned toward the child known as Mildred Grofe when Dr. Bernard Gottlieb of Manhattan revealed to detectives a few days ago that he had attended a sickly, ill-nourished baby girl at the home of Mrs. Grofe on Aug. 27, 1923, nine days after the McKenzie baby was kidnapped. A few days later Dr. Gottlieb said, Mrs. Grofe brought the child to his office, its face veiled. He said her answers to his questions were evasive and aroused his suspicions.

He told the investigators that he could offer evidence that the child was the McKenzie baby. At the time he treated the baby the Grofes lived in Audubon avenue, Manhattan. They later moved to Englewood.

Dr. Gottlieb said that when he had attended the baby at Mrs. Grofe's the child was suffering so seriously from malnutrition he had to take extreme measures to save her life. Mrs. Grofe explained, he said, that the baby's condition was due to the fact that she and her husband had been on a trip to England, leaving the infant in the care of a woman who knew little about babies.

COOLIDGE'S EASTER OUTFIT WILL COST LESS THAN $75

WASHINGTON, April 2.—According to the story being handed about Washington, President Coolidge's Easter outfit will cost well under $75. The latest estimate is for a $65 domestic worst suit, like the one he wore when Vice President. These suits served him so satisfactorily that he sees no reason to desert them, and despite the tailor's opinion that he might be tempted with an imported fabric, he insisted on something made in the United States.

Mr. Coolidge's last year's hat was sent to be restocked, cleaned and returned with a new ribbon some time ago. The cost of the reconstruction is placed at around $2.50. The story now goes that he has had half-soles put on a pair of shoes.
